REPRISAL STORIES TOLD IN IRELAND

Two Sons of Tipperary Farmer Said to Have Been Taken From Their House and Shot by Uniformed Men—Alleged Murder of Man in County Galway

BLACK AND TAN INVASION ALARMS DROGHEDA PEOPLE

Catholic Bishops in Meeting at Maynooth Pass Resolutions Denouncing Reprisals and Declaiming Against Government—Mr. Henderson to Propose Independent Investigation

BALLYDAVID, Ireland, Oct. 19.—At Banshea, County Tipperary, two sons of a farmer named Dwyer, alleged to have been associated with the Sinn Fein and volunteer movement, last night were taken from their house to the farmyard and shot. The shooting is said to have been done by a party of uniformed men, who later discharged a volley of shots in the bedrooms of the house.

BALLYGAR, County Galway, Ireland, Oct. 19.—A party of "Black and Tan" police searching the district Monday night in connection with the murder of a member of the constabulary, are reported to have called a man named Boyle to his door, where he was shot dead by masked men.

DROGHEDA, Ireland, Oct. 19.—The populace was thrown into excitement at 3 a.m. by repeated volleys from rifles fired by "Black and Tans," who arrived in military lorries. One civilian was wounded. Several raids were made by the invaders and eight men were arrested.

Catholic Bishops' Resolutions

DUBLIN, Oct. 19.—The Irish Catholic bishops met at Maynooth, with Cardinal Logue presiding, and the entire hierarchy signed a strong resolution denouncing "terrorism, partiality and failure as characteristic of the present Irish Government."

The bishops recall in the resolution that "when the country was crimeless" they warned the Government against oppressive measures. They declare: "It is not a question of hasty reprisals, but of indiscriminate hate of savages, deliberately wreaked on the whole countryside, without any proof of complicity in crime, by those ostensibly employed to protect lives and property."

The resolution declares that the press is gagged, that public meeting is interdicted, and that inquests are suppressed. It also says there has been brutal treatment of clergymen, and that the preventing of Archbishop Mannix of Australia from visiting Ireland was "one of the most unwise steps purblind and tyrannical oppression could take."

The bishops demand a full inquiry, and urge the right of Ireland to choose its own government.

Mr. Henderson's Proposal

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Arthur Henderson, the Labor leader, will present in the House tomorrow a motion of the Labor party regretting "the state of lawlessness in Ireland, and the lack of discipline of armed forces, which resulted in the death of innocent citizens and the destruction of property."

The motion will express the opinion that an independent investigation should immediately be instituted into the causes, nature and extent of the reprisals.

CORK, Oct. 19.—The verdict today by the military court of inquiry into the death of Michael Fitzgerald, the first of the hunger strikers to die in Cork jail, was that "the deceased, of sound mind, deliberately caused his own existence to end and did feloniously kill himself."

The governor of the jail testified that Fitzgerald took no food for 68 days. Dr. Pearson, a jail physician, testified that death was due to the gradual cessation of the vital functions caused by prolonged abstinence from all forms of nourishment.

FERMOY, Ireland, Oct. 19.—The funeral party bringing the body of Michael Fitzgerald to Fermoy, his home town, arrived here today. The coffin was escorted by a large crowd to the church, from which the burial will take place tomorrow.

LIQUOR ISSUE DECIDED TODAY

Large Vote Expected to Be Recorded at Today's Balloting —Polls Open From 8 A.M. to 7 P.M.

Today electors throughout the Province, having heard the case of Prohibition versus Government control and sale argued pro and con for the past three weeks, will decide the issue at the ballot box.

Voting on the plebiscite will commence at 8 a.m. and terminate at 7 p.m. on the following issue as set forth on the ballot papers:

Which Do You Prefer?

(1) The Present "Prohibition Act"?

or

(2) An Act to provide for Government control and sale in sealed packages of spirituous and malt liquors?

The voter is expected to signify his desire by placing a cross opposite either one of the above two alternatives.

Given good weather, it is certain that a large vote will be polled. The opposing forces have been hard at work for weeks past perfecting their arrangements for getting out the vote, and, besides an active canvass carried on, have provided plenty of vehicles in which to convey the electors to the polls.

With the polls closing at 7 p.m., the count should be known by 8 p.m. With five polling divisions, and each division provided with a number of subdivision booths, the count should be speedily recorded. Returning Officer Capt. Carew-Martin has everything in readiness for the polling and ample facilities have been provided.

Voters are reminded again that they must vote at the polling station for the division or ward for which they recently registered when the new Provincial voters' list was being prepared.

Voters from outside ridings who may be in the city today have the right to cast their ballots here by applying at any booth, and, upon taking the requisite affidavit of their qualification to vote in some other riding, may secure a ballot which will be counted in the returns for that riding. This system of absentee voting is new in this Province, having been provided for in the new Provincial elections list passed at the recent session of the Legislature.

Voters will be called upon, prior to being handed a ballot, to sign a register at the poll. This, too, is a new provision in voting in this Province, the idea being that by this means the old practices of personation will be greatly eliminated, if not totally done away with. The signature to be signed is that with which the elector signed his application for registration of his name on the voters' list.

For the convenience of voters the sections covered by the various polling divisions, the boundaries of which coincide with the old-time wards, are as follows:

Polling Division One—All voters in Victoria West, Rock Bay and west of Government Street, vote at the St. Francis Hotel.

Polling Division Two—All voters in Work Estate, Finlayson district and northwest of Government and Yates, vote at the Scott Building, 1858 Douglas Street.

Polling Division Three—All voters south of Yates to Fort, including all Spring Ridge and Jubilee Hospital district, vote at 932 Johnson Street, between Vancouver and Quadra.

Polling Division Four—All voters in Foul Bay district, also Rockland Avenue, St. Charles Street, Pembroke Street, and all intersecting streets south of Fort to Collinson, vote

MEET IMMEDIATE NEEDS, C.N.R. PLAN

National Railway System Aims to Take Care of Business Requirements as They Develop, Says Mr. D. B. Hanna

"We are anxious to extend our service here in every way possible to meet demands upon us, but we have simply got to plan our expenditures in a manner having regard to the fact we are operating in every Province of the Dominion, and always having in mind that what we spend is for the immediate necessities of business," said Mr. D. B. Hanna, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railways, who, with a party of fellow directors and officials of the National railway system reached Victoria yesterday morning on a trip of inspection.

Immediately on arriving in the city the party left by special train over the line of the C.N.R., proceeding up to mile 67, to which point steel has been laid. Following their return, Mr. Hanna and Colonel Thomas Cantley, of New Glasgow, and Mr. Robert Robson, of Hamilton, directors, held a conference with Premier Oliver at the Legislative buildings. Mr. R. T. Riley, of Winnipeg, another director, did not participate in this confer-

SOVIET PROCLAIMS STATE OF SIEGE

PARIS, Oct. 19.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Copenhagen says a report has reached the Danish capital that a state of siege has been proclaimed in twelve Russian departments, including Moscow and Petrograd.

PENITENTIARY STRIKE HAS BEEN SUBDUED

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Colonel O. M. Biggar, general counsel to the Government, is investigating the difficulties at Kingston penitentiary and will report in due course. Col. Biggar is now at Kingston, but is expected back in Ottawa toward the end of the week.

Official reports received here indicate that the strike has been quelled. The ringleaders were placed in cells, and with their arrest the trouble subsided. Steps are being taken to prevent a recurrence.

WARRING AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS

Permanent International Society Is Formed at Conference in Paris—Methods in U.S. Highly Commended

PARIS, Oct. 19.—A permanent international society for the prevention of tuberculosis, composed of all members of the League of Nations and the United States was formed today by the international anti-tuberculosis conference here.

Sir William Robert Phillip, of Edinburgh, Scotland, was elected president, and London was selected for the first international meeting next Autumn.

Education of the people and physicians was pointed out as a most vital necessity. The delegates agree that attention must be concentrated on methods of prevention and cure which are now known.

The delegates conceded that America was the foremost nation in the fight against the disease. They asserted that campaigns in many countries were patterned after the American plan.

It was agreed that the health education of children along the lines followed by the United States must be adopted at once by European countries if the disease was to be eradicated.

The European delegates reported that the increase of tuberculosis due to war was less than expected.

A report on the American situation was made by Dr. Gerald Webb of Colorado Springs. Although there are one million cases of tuberculosis in the United States today, Dr. Webb asserted that, due to the intensive fight, the death rate had been reduced twenty per cent in fifteen years.

OPPOSE OUTLAY ON ST. LAWRENCE

New York Interests Represent Scheme as One for Canada's Benefit — Rebuke Comes From Chairman Gardner

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Criticism of the proposed deep sea waterway from the Great Lakes through the St. Lawrence River as impracticable, unsound and injurious to the barge canal of New York State, was massed by its opponents at a hearing today before the international joint commission. Tomorrow Eastern proponents of the project will place their views before the commission, which was appointed by the Governments of Canada and the United States to investigate the feasibility of the plan.

Among the arguments today were several references to the expenditure of great sums by the United States to improve waterways in another country, and several times opponents pictured the plight of the investment in case of war between Great Britain and America. One speaker declared he could not see why the United States "should start another Panama Canal in a foreign country."

These remarks brought a reply from the American chairman of the International Commission, former Senator Obediah Gardner of Maine. "Several times today I have noted inferences, some deliberately erroneous, that this project is an attempt on the part of Canada to inveigle the United States into building a waterway for Canada," he said. "This project originated in the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States."

Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon asserted: "It would seem the benefits of this project are entirely assumed." Taking cognisance of the strong support it has in fifteen western states, he thought "many cities are dreaming of being ocean ports," naming Duluth and Chicago as two of them. He predicted at least twenty locks would have to be built on the lakes, and pointed out the slow time that the boats would make compared with a trip to an Atlantic port.

LONDON, Oct. 19. — Forty-eight enemy steamships, aggregating 247,400 tons, have been sold by Baron Inchcape, who is in charge of the disposal of the vessels. The sales were made to British purchasers and realized £6,758,975.

SOVIET FORCES GAIN VICTORY

Moscow Reports That General Wrangel's Army Has Been Severely Defeated in Combat Northeast of Crimea

INFANTRY REGIMENTS REPORTED DESTROYED

Newspaper Organ of Soviet Government Attacks General Budenny for Changing to Side of Its Opponents

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Russian Bolsheviki forces have defeated the army commanded by General Wrangel, which has been operating in the Kakhovka sectors northeast of the Crimea Peninsula, according to a wireless dispatch from Moscow.

The Soviet troops took large quantities of booty, and destroyed the Smolensk and Alexeieff infantry regiments of the Southern army.

General Babineff, commander of the Kuban division, is reported killed and it is said General Barbovitch, commander of a cavalry corps, was severely wounded.

Budenny's Departure

RIGA, Oct. 19.—Desertion of the Soviet cause by General Budenny, former cavalry leader of the Bolsheviki, who is now reported to be operating against them in the neighborhood of Kiev, is acknowledged by the Moscow Pravda.

Commenting on General Budenny's action, the newspaper says:

"Low cowardice and vile treason have occurred within our ranks. Budenny's treason was based on his own conviction, and was not of his free election, but was inspired by fear to appear before our court to defend his mistakes."

AIRMEN TO TRY VICTORIA FLIGHT

Four Officers Plan to Leave Jericho Station at 10 o'Clock If Weather Is Favorable—Bear Official Letters

VANCOUVER, Oct. 19. — Provided the weather is favorable, the seaplane H. S. 2 L. will take off from the Jericho station of the Air Board at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, for a flight to Victoria, it was announced tonight by Col. Robert Leckie, who will pilot the machine. The party making the trip will consist of Air Commodore A. R. Tylee, Captain G. A. Thompson, Captain G. M. Dean and Col. Leckie.

The flight will be made to deliver official letters to Lieut.-Governor Prior which have been brought from officials by the trans-Canada flyers, and also to complete the trans-Canada flight to the Western outpost of British Columbia.

On arrival at Victoria the aviators will be greeted by civic, military and air force officials. They will be the guests of Lieut.-Governor Prior at a luncheon at Government House, when it is expected that Premier Oliver will also be present.

The return trip will be made late in the afternoon, and it is expected that several other short airplane journeys will be made before the return of the flyers to the East. Air Commodore Tylee, Captain Thompson and Col. Leckie will return to Eastern Canada on Monday or Tuesday by train. The machine in which the aviators made the last lap of the cross-Canada flight is being rapidly dismantled for shipment East.

PARIS DOCTOR GOES TO KING ALEXANDER

ATHENS, Oct. 19.—At 10 a.m. the condition of King Alexander showed little change. The congestion of the lungs persists, drowsiness taking the form of coma. His temperature was reported at 102, pulse 124, respiration 34.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—A noted surgeon, whose name has not been disclosed, left here for Athens tonight by special train in answer to an urgent summons from the bedside of King Alexander. It is understood he will attempt a further operation on the King.

MACSWINEY REFUSES TO TAKE TREATMENT

LONDON, Oct. 19. — A bulletin issued at 9 p.m. by the Irish Self-Determination League, says:

"Lord Mayor Macswiney passed a restless day. The doctor again was summoned and urged him strongly to take lime juice against scurvy. This led to an altercation which excited the patient and left him exhausted, but tonight he was more settled and his condition was generally unchanged."

Missions Leave Vilna

PARIS, Oct. 19.—All the missions, military and civil, including the mission of the League of Nations have left Vilna, according to reports received in official circles here.

GIVES SOME HOPE OF FINDING MEANS TO SETTLE STRIKE

PARLIAMENT BUILDING IS MAKING PROGRESS

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Rapid headway is being made with the construction of the massive tower of the new Parliament Building, but there is no prospect of it being completed before the next session of the House. The present plan is to close the tower in for the Winter on a level with the third story and resume construction in the Spring. This means, however, that the main entrance to the building will be available before the session opens.

Much progress is likewise being made with the interior of the big structure, more particularly the Senate Chamber, while the decoration of the chamber of the Commons in blue and gold is being carried out by a corps of artists.

SPEAKS OF OIL AT FORT NORMAN

President Stillman Says Strike Is Important, But of No Commercial Value at Present—Region Inaccessible

TORONTO, Oct. 19—"We consider this an important oil strike, and scientifically of much value," says President C. O. Stillman, of the Imperial Oil Company, in a statement made public tonight referring to the oil strike near Fort Norman, on the Mackenzie River.

"From a commercial point of view, however, it is not of immediate value, as it probably will be years before it can be made available in quantity for the use of the Canadian market.

"It would be necessary to demonstrate by actual drilling and production," says President Stillman, "that there are sufficient quantities to justify laying a pipe line, which, itself, would probably cost $50,000,000."

The point where oil has been struck, President Stillman points out, is 900 miles out from the nearest calling point of a river boat, 1,200 miles from the nearest railroad and 1,500 miles north of Edmonton, the nearest city. The only means of access to the location at the present time is down the northern rivers, which will only float boats of four or five feet draught, and several rapids necessitate the unloading and transporting of the cargoes overland and reloading on barges. This precludes bringing oil up the river in any quantities until adequate transportation facilities are provided.

Besides, the severe cold militates very much against commercializing any oil found in that territory, reducing the period of navigation to three or four months a year and making it difficult to handle the oil. It will require great study before any means can be devised of getting the oil out to compete with crudes from other centres of production.

GOVERNMENT WILL WELCOME ADVICE

Moderate Tone of Discussion in House of Commons Encourages Public to Believe That Further Negotiations Will Be Undertaken With Some Prospect of Success

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The parliamentary debate on the coal strike tonight, although it disappointed hopes of any immediate settlement of the dispute, nevertheless, owing to the extreme moderation and the conciliatory tone of the Premier's speech, has left much brighter prospects that a settlement ere long will be found.

The Premier especially emphasized that no question of amour propre would prevent the Government from honestly, fearlessly and sincerely examining any project promising a settlement having due regard for the public interest, and he expressed perfect willingness to consider increased remuneration for the miners, provided it meant a larger output.

While the cabinet was discussing the suggestion of William Brace that the two shillings demanded by the miners should be granted pending the creation of a permanent wage board, and having the matter reviewed by the end of the year, the labor members of Parliament held an important conference in the committee room of the House. Mr. Brace and other members identified with the mining industry attended, and there is a general belief tonight that negotiations will speedily be resumed.

In the House discussion, Premier Lloyd George explained his unemployment scheme as he outlined it yesterday to a deputation which visited him, but added little to his previous statement except that the scheme would embrace the building of new roads around London.

Mr. Brace's Proposal

The Premier contributed nothing to the coal discussion, which was largely confined to the labor men. The latter emphasized the urgency of arriving at a settlement before the dispute grew to grave proportions.

William Brace, Labor member for the Abertillery division of Monmouthshire, and president of the South Wales Miners' Federation, suggested that the two shillings the miners demanded should be granted temporarily, pending the creation of a permanent wage board, and the whole matter reviewed by the end of the year. He asserted that there was no evidence that the miners had purposely restricted the output, and demanded that if it was to be a fight to a finish, every man must be withdrawn from the mines regardless of the damage and loss involved.

James H. Thomas, of the Railwaymens' federation, supporting Mr. Brace's suggestion, said it was no secret that seventeen days ago a special meeting of the railway delegates decided by only one vote not to take forthwith, after he had made the utmost efforts in favor of peace. He begged the House not to minimize the danger, but to remember that the same people were meeting tomorrow, and that the spirit of the workers was such that even if they felt a mistake had been made, there existed a feeling of comradeship which drew them together.

Premier's Reply

After Mr. Brace's speech, a Cabinet Council was held to consider the situation. Hence it was late when Premier Lloyd George replied. He began by complimenting the House on the moderation and absence of bitterness with which the question had been discussed. He then referred to Mr. Brace's suggestion, which he complained was, in many respects, obscure. He said if a settlement was to be attained, it must be on something more definite, which would not merely postpone the dispute to the future and sow the seeds of future trouble, not only in the mining but in every other industry.

Reviewing history of the dispute, the Premier reiterated the desire of the Government to listen to all arguments. He contended that any settlement should include some inducement to increase the output, and lengthily criticized Mr. Brace's suggestion, arguing that if at the end of the year it was found that though the output should not be increased, and an attempt was made to withdraw the increase in wages, there would be another strike.

The Government was not entitled to keep the country in suspense all that time. The Government sincerely desired to find an issue to the dispute, and was prepared to examine any scheme giving an increased output for increased remuneration.

Will Try to Settle Sugar Problem Today

Situation Will Be Considered From All Angles at Meeting of Cabinet—Refiners and Representatives of Other Interests to Be Heard —Vancouver Price Reduction

OTTAWA, Oct. 19. — The sugar situation, which, according to reports reaching Ottawa from all parts of the Dominion, is the chief topic of interest in Canada today, is to be thoroughly threshed out at tomorrow's hearing of the refiners and other interested parties before the cabinet. There will be practically a full attendance of members of the Government, and several interests besides the refiners are expected to present their case.

One of these which, it is stated, will prove interesting, is that of the candy manufacturing industries in Canada, who according to one man in close touch with the industry, are between two fires. The candy manufacturers, it is stated, would like to see cheaper sugar in order that they might hold their trade without danger of the American manufacturers underselling them, but at the same time, they face a loss if the reduction in sugar prices should be too drastic. Most of the firms in question are stated to be already manufacturing goods to fill their Christmas orders, and the sugar used in these orders has all been purchased at the higher prices. However, if there is reduction of Canadian sugar prices to anything like the American level, the Canadian merchants and people will demand a pro-rata reduction in the price of candies, and the manufacturers fear they may be compelled to sell the Christmas goods which they are now making at a loss because of the demands for rebates from merchants.

The impression here tonight is that the Government, unless some new and striking facts are brought out in tomorrow's hearing, will rescind the order of the Board of Commerce altogether and let the law of supply and demand rule in sugar prices.

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—A determined effort is to be made by the Federal Government to have the sugar difficulty finally settled at the meeting which takes place in Ottawa tomorrow according to a letter received this morning by D. S. Kerr, of Kerr, Paine & Company, and signed by Premier Meighen. This letter is in reply to a communication sent by Mr. Kerr to the Premier on Friday last, in which the refiners were charged with inconsistency in certain of their statements.

Mr. Kerr particularly alleged that the statement of refiners being overloaded with sugar as a result of the embargo is not consistant with statements made by refiners at various Boards of Commerce hearings earlier in the year, when, he maintains, refiners opposed the removal of the embargo and suggested that its removal would leave them short of sugar for home consumption.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 19.—The sugar refinery here this morning announced a reduction in the price of refined sugar of $1 a hundred, making the wholesale price $16 per hundred.

CALGARY, Oct. 19.—The retail price of sugar fell one cent a pound in Calgary yesterday, following a reduction of $1 a hundred announced by the British Columbia refiners. The price of granulated sugar is now 21½ cents a pound in four-pound bags, selling for 85c, as compared with four pounds for 86 cents last week. Last night's decline is the second within the last month, a fall of one-half cent a pound having taken place on September 24.

Low Water in St. Lawrence

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—The harbor gauge this morning showed 28 feet 9 inches of water in the channel in the St. Lawrence. This is within one inch of the lowest water mark ever reached.

ANARCHISTS TALK OF REVOLUTION

Terrorist Attacks on Populace Planned in Italy — Many Anarchists Arrested—Direct Action in Germany

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 19.—The police have gathered evidence demonstrating that the Anarchists have been planning a series of terroristic attacks on different populaces here. Nearly one hundred and eighty anarchists have been arrested. The Avanti, the Radical organ, says today:

"The final clash approaches. Be morally and materially ready to employ force. Have the Red Guards protect our newspapers and organizations. Let us answer violence with violence; an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth."

The radical leaders, Serrati and Gennari, have gone to Berlin to attend a Bolsheviki meeting at which M. Zinovieff, the Russian Bolsheviki is to be present, and at which it is said is to be intended to arrange common action for a communist revolution throughout Europe.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 19.—The Bolsheviki faction of the Independent Socialists has begun direct action in Halle, Germany, by seizing the offices of the Independent party's newspaper, says a dispatch to The Telegraf from Dresden.

SNOWFALL AND RAIN BENEFIT CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19. — A snowfall in the past two days has mantled the Sierra Nevada Mountains to a depth of more than two feet in places, giving promise of great relief to agriculturists, who have suffered by a dry spell for four years' duration, the United States weather bureau announced here today. The fall was two feet thick at Summit, Sierra County, yesterday, with every indication that it would last at least twelve hours longer, the bureau reported.

The fall, with rains throughout the state, will have the effect of raising depressed water tables and making it possible for future rains to fill depleted streams and reservoirs, the bureau said.

MR. ELIHU ROOT TALKS ON TREATY

Thinks President Wilson Was Wrong in Insisting Upon Ratification Without Alteration of Versailles Pact

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Elihu Root, in his only address on the League of Nations during the presidential campaign, tonight declared that the treaty of peace with Germany would have been ratified, and America would have been a member of the League, if President Wilson "had been willing."

"Mr. Wilson, however, was not willing. He insisted on the treaty being absolutely unchanged," Mr. Root said, adding later on in his speech:

"I do not question Mr. Wilson's belief that the dispositions of the treaty for which he was contending on May 31, 1919, were just and fair, but, without disrespect, I do question Mr. Wilson's infallibility.

"I question the complete control of abstract justice in the processes by which the four men who dictated these treaties, which undertook to make over Eastern Europe, reached their conclusions.

"I have an impression that there was the accommodation of conflicting interests; the giving of something here to get something there; the yielding of some things in order to avoid losing others; the shading of justice by expediency which has characterized such conferences since history began. I have a strong impression that some of their conclusions were mistakes.

"And I think it most objectionable that the American people shall enter into solemn and positive agreement to guarantee and maintain by any force of arms for all time the dispositions of territory and sovereignty which these four men made in the year 1919.

"That is a part of which Article 10 undertakes to do."

MEET IMMEDIATE NEEDS, C.N.R. PLAN

ence, having become indisposed during the trip over the Island line.

Luncheon Plan Miscarries

Arrangements had been made by the council of the Board of Trade, on the return of Mr. Hanna and his party from their inspection trip over the railway, to tender a luncheon in his honor, but in some manner no intimation of that fact had been conveyed to the visitors. Mr. Hanna expressed regret last evening that he had known nothing of the contemplated function.

"Our trip to the Coast is merely an inspection one, with no special significance," stated Mr. Hanna, who added that the fact that there were so many officials along was purely a co-incidence.

"Construction on the Island branch is proceeding, and we are now at the 67th mile point. We will keep straight on until we reach the 100 mile point, but I cannot say just when the work will be completed. It depends upon the availability of supplies of labor and materials. Some delay has been occasioned by shortage of both, but no more, I imagine, than has been experienced in other parts of the Dominion."

Outer Docks

Beyond stating that arrangements have already been made whereby the company plans utilization of space at the Outer Docks for a lumber assembling station, Mr. Hanna stated he had no further plans to announce relative to the future use of the docks. The various interests who will be accommodated there are now making arrangements with the company for storage space.

"We are ready for business when that business comes," he stated.

There is little possibility of the company erecting administrative offices on its property at the corner of Government and Fort Streets. In regard to this and other expenditures Mr. Hanna reiterated that any expenditures made must be made with an eye to immediate necessities to the end that the company's business may be built up.

"We will not be found wanting if the business offers," he stated with emphasis. "We want an outlet for our Canadian trade, and it is our purpose to pay every attention to this port as the occasion demands."

Successful Operations

Success has attended the operation of the Canadian Mercantile Marine which is being operated in conjunction with the National system, stated Mr. Hanna. While he was not prepared to give out any figures he stated that so far the fleet operations have been carried on successfully from a financial standpoint, and he expressed the wish that the same result would have followed from the operation of the railway system. Every effort, he stated, was being made to the end that the present trying conditions under which the railway is operating may be made less trying.

There will be, all told, some 390,000 tons of shipping operated in conjunction with the railway, of which 100,000 tons has been allotted to this coast. The ships already in service have been taking out full cargoes, though not always bringing back such.

Mr. Hanna stated that the action of the Railway Board in increasing rates was a necessity from the standpoint of the National system, though at the present sessions of the Board the whole interest appears to centre around the C.P.R., and the C.N.R. needs were being ignored. In fact, he stated, while the increases granted are most necessary, the National system really requires further consideration.

Other members of the party accompanying Mr. Hanna and the three directors are Messrs. S. J. Hungerford, of Toronto, vice-president in charge of operation; R. P. Armsley, secretary of the C.N.R.; A. E. Warren, general manager of Western lines; Thomas Dixon, A. H. Eager, C. Biested, D. Ivey, J. R. Cameron and A. Cowan, of Winnipeg; Messrs. C. R. Brown and C. B. Chowski, of Toronto, and A. G. Weldon, of Montreal.

GERMAN SOCIALISTS FORM TWO FACTIONS

HALLE, Oct. 19.—Two distinct revolutionary parties, one pledged to the dictatorship of the proletariat through an alliance with the Third Internationale, the other working toward proletariat comradeship in opposition to Moscow, have developed out of the wreck of the Independent Socialists.

The Left majority, under the leadership of Daumig, Hoffman and Otto Bass, the young leader of Rhineland labor, conferred yesterday on the question of executing an agreement with Moscow for a world revolution, and directed the district leaders to prepare for a strike.

The minority, under the joint presidency of Ledebour and Crispien, in a separate convention laid plans to communicate with revolutionary forces in all countries opposed to Moscow and prepare an organized campaign against Bolshevist methods.

WRANGEL FORCES SUFFER DEFEAT

Fail to Take Bridgehead on Dnieper River and Lose Heavily — General Creates Local Governing Councils

SEBASTOBOY, Oct. 17.—Efforts of General Baron Wrangel, anti-Bolshewiki leader in South Russia, to take the Kakhovka bridgehead have failed with heavy losses to his forces in killed and wounded and in material. The killed included the general commanding a cavalry corps.

General Wrangel's troops have been thrown behind the Dnieper, which they still control.

Leon Trotzky, the Russian soviet war minister, is said to be personally directing the Dnieper campaign.

General Wrangel has signed a law creating local zemstvos which will exercise far-reaching powers. He said he hoped civil war would soon end and that the zemstvos would send capable delegates to the national assembly which will determine the future character of new Rusia.

BILL FOR IRELAND WILL BE PRESSED

Mr. Bonar Law Announces Intention of Government to Proceed — Steps Taken Against Murder Campaign

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The government intends to proceed with the government of Ireland bill, it was declared by Andrew Bonar Law, government spokesman, in the House of Commons today. The announcement was greeted with cheers from the coalition benches.

Colonel Malone, Liberal member, demanded whether the government intended meantime to continue the "police murder reprisals."

This brought cries of "shame," from the floor.

"It is the intention of the government meantime to put down the policy of murder," Mr. Bonar Law replied.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, stated that since January 1, policemen to the number of 100, with 18 of the military, had been killed in Ireland, and 160 of the police and 66 of the military had been wounded. Police barracks to the number of 667 had been attacked and most of them destroyed. There had also been an organized attempt to boycott the police and their relatives.

Sir Hamar said he could not detail the steps being taken to deal with "this campaign of murder and outrage," but he assured the House that the means of dealing with the outrages were rapidly improving.

Home Secretary Shortt, when questioned regarding the possible release of Lord Mayor Macswiney of Cork, declared the government had not altered its policy that convicted men or those awaiting trial for serious offenses would not be released because of hunger strikes. All men now striking came within this category, the Home Secretary said.

Michael Fitzgerald, who died in Cork jail, Mr. Shortt added, was charged with murder, and there was decisive evidence against him.

The Home Secretary asserted that none of the prison authorities had fed Lord Mayor Macswiney.

BRITAIN AND MEXICO HOLD GOOD RELATIONS

VENICE, Oct. 19.—Britain desires to maintain friendly relations with Mexico, said Felix Palavisini, Envoy Extraordinary of the Mexican Government, here yesterday.

He added that when he visited London last July, the British Government notified him in writing of its intention to resume diplomatic relations upon the inauguration of President Obregon in December. It also offered every assistance in the work of reconstruction in Mexico, he said.

FRANCE CORRECTS SENATOR HARDING

Assurances Are Given U. S. State Department No Person Had Authority to Make Suggestion He Reported

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Assurances have been given the State Department by Count De Bearn, French charge d'affaires here, that the French Government has not given authority to anyone to approach Senator Harding with suggestions that the Republican Presidential nominee take the lead in forming a new world association.

Calling attention to an official denial issued by the French Foreign Office yesterday, the French charge told Under-Secretary of State Davis that he was assured that the French Government had delegated no spokesman to act for it in negotiations with Senator Harding, either "formally or informally, officially or unofficially."

The announcement of the visit of the French charge to the State Department yesterday afternoon was made today by Mr. Davis, who said that while Count De Bearn had delivered no formal reply to the American note of inquiry the French Government, dispatched yesterday, he supposed that the assurances given by the charge were the result of previous communications with his Government.

Mr. Davis said he did not know whether the French Government would content itself with the denial issued formally yesterday at Paris and the assurances given the State Department through the French charge, or whether a formal reply would be made to the formal note of inquiry sent by the American Government at the direction of President Wilson.

It was further stated that the American Government had never had any intimation of a desire by the French Government to "scrap" the present League of Nations or to revise it.

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The French Foreign Office stated today that it had not as yet received any demand from Washington for information regarding the subject referred to by President Wilson in his letter to Senator Harding, telegraphed to the press of France from the United States.

The only statement authorized by the Foreign Office thus far is that no official communication of any nature had been made by the French Government regarding a substitute for the League of Nations.

SYLVIA PANKHURST ARRESTED IN LONDON

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Sylvia Pankhurst, daughter of Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst, was arrested today, charged with publishing seditious literature.

Sylvia Pankhurst, who was a militant agent of the suffragette movement before the war, but was little in evidence in the news after she was arrested and fined for holding a peace meeting in London late in 1916, came into prominence again after the armistice, when she was arrested for her part in the May Day demonstrations of 1919. She was set free shortly afterwards, however.

She has been reported this year as taking considerable interest in the affairs of Soviet Russia, and last April it was reported to the State Department in Washington that documents purporting to have been signed by her promising assistance in spreading Bolsheviki propaganda throughout the world were found in possession of communist couriers arrested in Letvia.

UNITED STATES COAL NOT MUCH AFFECTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The coal strike in England will have no abnormal effect on the bituminous coal situation in the United States. While the British labor trouble may tend to increase export prices, the home consumer will not be affected.

This was the consensus of opinion today of representatives of coal export agencies and wholesale dealers, who declared that all coal that could possibly be shipped abroad had been going out of the country regularly for several months.

Millions of tons of unfilled orders are being held by American coal exporters, it was stated, and are being filled as fast as the fuel can be obtained and loaded at Atlantic ports.

The tidewater coal exchange reported that there was no increase in coal export since the strike.

FAMINE RELIEF WORK CARRIED ON IN CHINA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Red Cross relief work is well under way in the districts of China where famine exists, the State Department was advised today by the American Legation at Pekin.

The control of Red Cross funds is under the direction of American civil and military engineers, who have volunteered to help in meeting the problem in China.

A consortium committee, under the leadership of Dr. Grey, of the British Legation, has provided seed for planting and food for the starving inhabitants, efforts being specially directed toward feeding the women and children of the famine-stricken areas.

MINERS IN FRANCE NOW THREATEN STRIKE

PARIS, Oct. 19.—Members of the National Council of the French Miners' Federation will meet here October 23, and consider demands for an immediate advance in wages of between four and five francs a day.

It is indicated the companies will be given a brief time in which to answer, and that in case of a refusal a strike will be called.

STRIKE ABSORBS PUBLIC INTEREST

British People Expect Some Action by Parliament to Avert Catastrophe Threatened by Stoppage of Mining

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The eyes of all Britain were centred today on the first session of Parliament after the Summer recess, the entire nation looking anxiously to the Legislators for action which might open a way to end the coal strike. The interest in the Irish question, which otherwise would have been the first topic of discussion today, waned in the presence of a situation menacing the prosperity of the whole country, and the members assembled with the idea of devoting their entire immediate attention to this pressing topic.

Rumors in political quarters beforehand as to the probable developments dealt mainly with two suggestions—one that, as the result of certain private discussions of political leaders and prominent labor men the Government and the Miners' Federation would soon get into negotiations again; the other, that the Government was contemplating a dissolution of Parliament to test the opinion of the nation.

In the latter case the Government, it is said, would appeal to the country with the declaration that the chase of wages after prices could not continue, and that the demands of the miners had been resisted to protect the community. Another version of the Government's possible course in such a contingency would be to challenge the judgment of the people whether "the supremacy of Parliament was to be overthrown and be replaced by the ascendancy of one class of the community."

All rumors of intervention by other unions in the controversy between the miners and the Government have ceased for the present, and the Labor spokesmen declare no union, nor any combination of unions, is likely to interfere without an invitation from the miners, which, they say, will certainly not be given at present.

Similarly, reports that other bodies of workers are intending to join the strike have ceased, for the time being at any rate.

Meanwhile the Government is receiving great numbers of offers of help from the general public. Thousands of men and many women have registered their names as helpers with the Food Ministry and the Ministry of Transport. It was necessary yesterday to line up the applicants in long lines and admit them to enroll a dozen at a time. It is understood, however, that none of the applicants was definitely engaged to serve, teh necessity of employing volunteers not having yet been reached. Such a necessity, it is believed, will not present itself unless the railwaymen eventually join the strike.

MINISTER URGES CALM DISCUSSION

Sir Robert Horne, Introducing Subject of Coal Strike in the House, Deprecates Bitterness—Small Riot in Wales

LONDON, October 19.—Parliament reopened today with the situation created by the coal strike and the Irish problem combining to draw the members to Westminster in large numbers. Thus the beginning of the Autumn session, which usually starts with a thin house and the discussion of unimportant subjects, found the lower chamber crowded in anticipation of an immediate debate on the coal strike.

When Premier Lloyd George entered he received an ovation.

The coal strike discussion was opened by Sir Robert Horne, President of the Board of Trade. He declared the Government was open to every form of suggestion by which a peaceful solution of this great question could be obtained. He appealed to the House to keep all bitterness out of the debate, saying the problem was to be solved not by denunciation, but by goodwill and common sense.

Sir Robert reviewed the attempts at a settlement with the miners, and drew a gloomy picture of the results if the strike were to be continued.

The factories throughout the country were closing, he said, each day throwing 10,000 additional persons out of employment.

It had been suggested, he continued, that because the country was in this horrible trouble, the miners should be given something.

That, he said, might settle the strike, but if it did so others would have to be settled every three months when once the impression got about that it was only necessary to threaten a strike in order to get something.

The first untoward incident directly connected with the coal strike occurred at Tonypandy, in South Wales, at midnight, when some young miners collected and started to sing "The Red Flag," causing the police to intervene. Some stone throwing occurred, but the crowd dispersed upon appeals by the police, although later, windows in police stations were smashed.

The incident, while a small one, has been taken by many as indicating the temper of the miners in this section, which observers of conditions report is a hotbed of extremists who are determined to fight to a finish.

Tonypandy was the scene of desperate rioting during the coal strike of 1912.

FOUR PROVINCES VOTE ON LIQUOR

Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Nova Scotia to Decide Question of Importation Next Monday

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—Arrangements for the voting in the three prairie provinces and Nova Scotia on Monday, Oct. 25, on the referendum covering the importation of liquors, are well in hand insofar as the Federal authorities are concerned. Returning officers have been named by proclamation in the 57 electoral districts included within the boundaries of the four provinces, in which the vote will be taken in much the same manner as it would be at a general election. Both men and women will have the right to vote, the restrictions in this respect being the same as prevailing under the provisions of the Dominion elections act. The counting of the votes will, it is expected, take place on the day the vote is taken, and the unofficial figures will be available that evening just as they are at elections times.

The returns for each electoral division will be sent to the returning officer for each district. In Saskatchewan and Alberta this official will make his official declaration of the result on November 3. In Manitoba and Nova Scotia, the official declaration will not be made until November 5. Returning officers will forward the official returns to the chief electoral officer, and they will be published in the Canada Gazette.

In the event of a province voting dry, provision is made in the Canada Temperance Act for the issuance of a proclamation making the vote of the people effective, but this cannot take place until at least 60 days after the voting day. This means that people who desire to import liquor will have at least until the Christmas holiday to lay in their supply. The ballot will contain but one question:

"Shall the importation of intoxicating liquor into the province be forbidden?"

The drys will vote "yes" and the wets will vote "no."

In this respect, the voting will be different from that cast in the Ontario referendum last Autumn, when the four questions were so framed that the "no" constituted the dry vote.

There will be approximately 6,200 polling subdivisions in the three prairie provinces and 1,000 in Nova Scotia to take care of the electorate. At a considerable number of advanced polls, railway men, commercial travellers and sailors who are likely to be away from home on October 25 will be given opportunity to vote on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

UNITED STATES DEALS WITH DRAFT EVADERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Draft evaders who had been apprehended up to July 15, and their cases disposed of by the military authorities numbered 163,738, it was announced today at the War Department.

The total number of draft desertions which had been reported to the provost marshal-general was 498,033, but examination of Government records showed that 161,354 men classed as deserters had enlisted in the army, navy or marine corps or in the armed forces of the Allies, so that the total number of desertions still listed now numbers 163,911.

The department's announcement added that probably several thousand men had been apprehended and their cases disposed of since July 15.

New York Rent Law Upheld

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. — Supreme court Justice Edward R. Finch, in the Bronx today handed down a decision that New York's new rent laws are constitutional. He said the protection of homes is within the police power of the state when a public emergency exists. The decision was reached in an ejection proceedings brought by a landlord who desired use of premises upon which the lease expired Oct. 1.

His Money Buried

VANCOUVER, Oct. 19.—Gerald Sprecken, a Saskatchewan farmer who told a wierd yarn to the police of having been robbed of $4,800 by a chance acquaintance with whom he roomed and who invited him to take a stroll on the night of October 13, told another story today. He arrived at police headquarters and informed the detectives that his money was buried in a hole in the ground. On being proffered assistance to locate the hidden wealth he stated that it was "quite safe," and that he would get it when he wanted it, without any help.

HUNGER STRIKERS FEEL DEPRESSION

Condition Grows Worse in Consequence of Fitzgerald's Death—Military Precautions in Connection With Funeral

CORK, Oct. 19.—The condition of the Irish hunger strikers in the Cork jail has become worse on the whole as the result of depression among the men caused by the death on Sunday of Michael Fitzgerald, first of the eleven to succumb. Joseph Murphy, who was very low Monday, has rallied as the result of medical treatment, but his case is still regarded as the most critical.

Severe collapses were suffered by two of the strikers, Donovan and Kenny early this morning. Hennessy, Reilly and Upton are also in a critical state.

A dramatic scene was enacted in the church just before the removal of Fitzgerald's body. The requiem mass was being celebrated when an army officer, with drawn revolver, accompanied by four soldiers with rifles, forced a way through the throng in the entrance, marched up to the altar rail and presented the officiating priest with a typewritten communication from headquarters stating that the number of persons in the funeral procession must be limited to 100, none of whom would be allowed to march in military formation.

To prevent Irish volunteers from marching in the funeral procession of Fitzgerald, when his body was removed today from the church here to Fermoy, a large force of military surrounded the church and six lorry loads of soldiers and an armored car fell in behind the mourners' carriages following the coffin. Great indignation was expressed among the people.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Evening News says that it understands that Lord Mayor Macswiney has reached a point where a critical collapse is likely to occur. The newspaper quotes a prison official as saying:

'Stimulants cannot do him much good, and should he collapse it would be difficult to apply restoratives as in the case of a normally healthy person. I think this week will see a great change for the worse in his condition."

ALDERMEN ORDER OWN PLEASURES BANNED

Fishing and Boating on Sooke Lake Are Forbidden by Water Commissioner, Who Is Supported by Council

Action of Water Commissioner F. M. Preston, in prohibiting boating and fishing on Sooke Lake and Humpback Reservoir, on the grounds of danger to public health was last night endorsed by the City Council.

The decision was accompanied with a spirit of levity, despite the fact that several of the members of the Council saw in this order their chances for pleasant outings in the future go a-glimmering.

"I move that this recommendation of Mr. Preston be adopted and that copies be sent to each member of the Council," said Alderman Todd.

"That is hardly necessary, is it?" asked Ald. Fullerton. "It makes it look as though members of the Council are guilty and I would hardly like to assume that. I would suggest sticking up the order downstairs for a permanent exhibit."

Mayor Porter said that boating and fishing on the city's water supply ponds was a "growing nuisance."

"We ought to go further than this," said Ald. Andros. "We should point out that the waterworks buildings are not to be used as dwellings for would-be sportsmen, and that cooking meals in them should be forbiden."

Ald. Andros here looked around at certain of his colleagues who avoided his glance.

He went on to say that the waterworks grounds had become a backyard for junk and should be tidier.

"I think all this is a good suggestion myself," said Ald. Sargent.

Ald. Dinsdale said the proposal to stop fishing and boating was nonsense. "There can't be pollution as a result of these things," he declared.

The Mayor said that some municipalities charged rental for boating and fishing privileges, but experts contended that these practices were a menace to health.

Ald. Sargent asked if the city was legally capable of carrying out Mr. Preston's recommendation. This point, he said, should be investigated. "If we haven't the power," said Ald. Andros, "we don't want to advertise it."

The Mayor told of parties that surreptitiously entered the Sooke Lake from the north end. "We should set an example to the public ourselves," he said.

"That would be a fine idea," agreed Ald. Andros.

The recommendation was adopted with only Ald. Dinsdale voting against it.

TODAY'S VOTE.

The position of this newspaper on the plebiscite to be held today has been clearly outlined on a number of occasions. We favor Temperance legislation to replace the Prohibition Act, because the latter has not proved conducive to the best moral interests of British Columbia. Temperance legislation, of a character that will meet with widespread approval, can be devised under Government Control, and only in that way. The people want the saloons closed in the Province. They remain open under Prohibition. Illicit traffic in liquor should be stopped. It has thriven, and continues to increase, under the present Act. Less than ten per cent of those who violate the existing law are punished, with the result that violations are becoming more numerous all the time. Under Government Control illicit traffic in liquor will cease, as then it can no longer be profitable. The temptations to minors to drink, which now exist in so many directions, will be put an end to when the Government controls the sale of all liquors, for only adults will be permitted to purchase.

We have too high an opinion of those whom the people elect to legislate for them to believe that putting the control of liquor in their hands will either taint themselves or pervert their view of what is morally good for the Province. If we did not believe this our faith in government would be small indeed. The effective safeguard of all legislation lies in the will of the people, under our constitutional system. Prohibition is an attempt to enforce Temperance by saying "Thou shalt not drink," but a large proportion of the population has refused to be dragooned into discontinuing a habit which had always been regarded as a personal right, legally recognized. No experience anywhere shows that Prohibition can be made effective, but on the contrary it would appear that the more rigid the restrictions the more numerous are the attempts made to evade the law. The present conditions in British Columbia call for reform in the interests of good government and a law-abiding population. It is our belief that Government Control would lead to a far wider measure of Temperance in this Province than prevails today under the Prohibition Act.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

From many opinions expressed during the past week it would appear that a number of people will not go to the polls today to vote on the Prohibition issue because their minds are not made up on the subject. It is difficult to understand this attitude in view of all the publicity that has been given to both the case for Government Control and that for Prohibition. The three years' experience of the Province under a Prohibition law should have persuaded everyone who has observed conditions what course should now be taken, that is, according to how they base judgment on experience. The Colonist believes, from its observations, that a policy which will lead to Temperance should replace the present law. It has been the duty of this newspaper to observe conditions, to weigh up those which have been observed from every source, and to endeavor to reach a decision. This is especially the case where a principle is involved, and where a question which affects the liberty of any considerable section of the people is affected.

Men and women undecided about going to the polls are chiefly those who claim they do not know what Government Control will mean. What, it must mean is the abolition of the conditions which have brought the Prohibition law into disrepute in this Province. Any Government, either the present one, or a new Government to be the result of a Provincial election, would be false to the wishes of the people if, in the event of Government Control being carried, it did not provide such safeguards as will insure the moral well being of the population. In any case it may be said definitely that there is certain to be an election before the law of Government Control is framed. Thus the people, if they sanction this Temperance measure, will have an opportunity of electing to office those whom they can trust to carry out their wishes. This newspaper is not in the confidence of the Government, but we are fully persuaded no doubt exists whatever that the present administration will not take on its shoulders the responsibility of framing an act which will govern the sale of liquor, without first seeking a mandate from the people on the basis of the provisions which that act will contain.

During an election, campaign the people would have every opportunity of discussing the safeguards which should exist in a Government Control measure. The certainty that this opportunity will be forthcoming, and that it is the Legislature that, will be the final arbiter of the nature of Government Control, in the event of the principle being approved by the people, should have a tendency to show those who are doubtful about going to the polls that their duty lies in voting and thus bringing their influence to bear on the governance of the Province. Government Control, by virtue of its power to put an end to the illicit practices which have marred the reputation of British Columbia as a law-abiding Province, should prove legislation that could and would be enforced. There will be ample time for the people to discuss the nature of such Control, for, as we have said, there is certain to be an election in which the proposed legislation on the principle will be subject to the people's will.

Prohibition breeds hypocrisy—hypocrisy breeds intolerance.

THE BRIDGE CONTRACT.

The City Council may find that, as a result of its decision last night, it has given too much leeway, to the contractor who will build the Johnson Street bridge, in the employment of outside labor. Bridge building is not intricate work, and for almost all branches of such an undertaking there are fully qualified employees to be found in Victoria. The City Council's decision in this respect leaves it in the power of the contractor to engage outsiders, that is to say, non-residents, where sufficiently skilled workmen cannot be obtained locally. This is the condition which will create dissatisfaction, and may give rise to insufficient local men being given employment. Inasmuch as only about 150 workmen will be required in connection with the building of the bridge it is desirable that they should be local residents, so far as possible. We maintain that practically all of this number, efficient for bridge building, can be secured locally.

Another provision endorsed by the City Council calls for a four months' residential qualification for Victorians given employment on the work. This is too brief. It means that people from other parts who came here by September, can claim the right to employment in building the bridge if their qualifications are sufficient. This is a handicap to Victorians of longer residence. The residential qualification might well have been increased, without any hardship being inflicted. There is unemployment here, and a certain percentage of men who have their homes in Victoria and are out of work have been looking forward to finding jobs in building the bridge. The City Council should have gone farther in safeguarding their interests and should not have allowed so much latitude to the successful contractor.

Government Control is consistent with British liberty

WILL CONSULT BOARD ON SCHOOL MATTERS

Tolmie Parent-Teachers Want More Grounds and Better Sanitary Conditions — Hear Miss Winn on "Manual Arts"

As a result of the meeting of the Tolmie Parent-Teachers' Association held in the school building last night, deputations will in all probability wait upon the Saanich School Board in connection with matters pertinent to the welfare of the school. Mr. Clarke occupied the chair, reporting upon his interviews with Mr. May and Dr. Vye. As a result committees were proposed to attend the next trustee meeting to better the situation relating to the school grounds, which are felt to be inadequate, and the sanitary conditions of the primary school.

Miss Winn, of the Fernwood Road School, delivered an instructive lecture in the course of the evening, dealing with "Manual Arts and Their Educative Value." The necessity of these branches in the school curriculum was emphasized by the speaker, who pointed out that science, invention and necessity have removed from the home all corresponding manual duties. The great error since the enforcement of compulsory education is the setting of brainworkers against handworkers. Yet it takes just as fine a type of brain to build a house as to draw up the most complicated legal document. Some types lean to creative work, others to abstract occupations like that of the law. Yet all is brain concentration. The boy who has turned out a beautiful model in manual training is just as clever mentally as the one who translates pages of Latin with ease. Children should be classed according to types. In manual training and similar courses the idea is not to turn out carpenters and dressmakers, but to give children as many experiences as possible of real life conditions along every line, that they may thus become interested in the world's activities.

RIOT IN WHITEHALL WORK OF HOOLIGANS

LONDON, Oct. 19.— Yesterday's riot at Whitehall had no direct connection with the coal strike. The riot, in fact, was the work of a comparatively few hooligans, the great majority of unemployed demonstrators who marched along Downing Street being perfectly peaceful.

A considerable number of idlers visited Whitehall, the scene of yesterday's rioting this morning, seeking signs of the damage done to the public buildings. The traces, however, had been largely obliterated. The usual police patrols were somewhat strengthened, but did not interfere with the crowds which sauntered through Downing Street and other thoroughfares in the neighborhood.

Prohibition

Sir, — On Wednesday next the women of the Province will have the privilege for the first time to cast their vote either in favor of Prohibition or for Government Sale of liquor, and what are you women going to do about it? It has always been the privilege of us mere men to frame the laws and to cast our votes in favor or not for the laws that are made, and at the last plebiscite the men, by a large majority, voted in favor of Prohibition. Now you women have a chance to strengthen our hands, and by a decided vote say once and for all that as far as this fair Province is concerned, that we will remain dry, able to grow up into splendid manhood and lovely womanhood unharmed by this terrible destroyer which has wrecked so many young lives, and sent them into an untimely grave, or will you stand up united to fight this terrible foe? Lloyd George said at the outbreak of the war: We have three enemies to fight, Germany, Austria, and strong drink, and the greatest of these is the drink evil. So, therefore, when you go to vote next Wednesday, and see the ballot before you, ask yourself this: "What would Jesus do"? Were He here to reign, He would once and for all clear such a curse out of the world, and you mothers who went through the valley of the shadow of death to bring into this world a pure little child, are you going to still try to do your utmost to help him or her to keep straight, and teach him or her to love liberty, and to try to banish forever the greatest enslaver of our country. Mothers, for your sake, and your children's, vote for Prohibition, and you will never regret it.

For Government Control

Sir,—Like numbers of your readers I have waded through the statements and arguments of both Prohibitionists and Moderationists, and some of the details are positively nauseating, used by one o your most prolific writers, whilst the prosy and extended letters of some Moderation writers don't seem to enlighten your readers. I have made up my mind that I will support the proposal to deal with the question from the point of Government Control, and my reason for doing so are on the following grounds; I find that the City of Victoria has lost over $250,000 in licence fees, and we, the taxpayers, find that our property has got to bear this burden—which the said licences used to contribute. We have had to increase our police force, and raise their pay, and this has added to the property owners' burden. We find that under the act as proposed, that Prohibition has enabled anyone desiring it, to get what liquor they wanted, and, consequently, all kinds of people are manufacturing a liquor that maddens, but gives immense profit to the bootlegger who sells it. If we have had Prohibition as the Prohibitionists wanted it, then it appears to me, that the Government should have control of the business, and change the laws to punish those who sell it more severely, and have control of the profits that would ensue, so that our taxes might be lessened.

The Government are the right people to control the business, and it sure could not be any worse under Government Control than it is under the present Prohibition Act. Nothing is hurting the property owner and taxpayer more than the taxes we have to pay today. The amusement tax, motor licence tax, income tax, property tax, insurance tax. Through the Government taking all these licences and taxes we, the taxpayers, of this city, have to lose our property, or borrow to hold our homes. If Victoria had retained the licence fees which the saloons used to pay into the treasury at the City Hall, Victoria taxpayers would have a quarter of a million dollars less to pay.

The Prohibitionists who were always claiming that conditions would be improved, and the social conditions of the workingman brightened, have not moved one finger to put anything in the place of the saloon which they closed. The temperance workers have nothing to take credit for. They have brought the city treasury into a state of bankruptcy, they are responsible for the property of many hundreds of workingmen being sold, and we have been compelled to submit to an enormous increase of taxes to suit the whims of a number of intemperate temperance people, and as I state that we have lost to the city over a quarter of million dollars, which in many ways would have helped the city to tide over the period of depression. It is my determination to do my best to get my friends to go to the polls, and I hope all those who feel as I do will not only vote, but will give the whole time on polling day to bring their friends to the poll. The present Prohibition Act is vile. It does not stop drink. It encourages the bootlegger, and the sale of the vilest concoctions, and our chance to remedy this is at the polls on Wednesday. Don't be satisfied with voting yourself, be sure your friends and neighbors vote.

Prohibition Controversy

Sir,—Everyone these days appears to have a fling for or against Prohibition. Even our doughty editor of The Colonist gives his own, or his party's views on the subject. Will he allow mine?

It is a hard matter to take an impartial view on a personal subject; one does not blame a man for defending his little drop of liquor to which he has been accustomed most of his life, and does not think it right to forego it in behalf of those who are known as drink fiends. As one who has studied the liquor question and its handling by different Governments, in several parts of the world, let me endeavor to take an impartial view from a world's standpoint and history.

The Mahometan races, as part of their religious custom, are prohibited from drinking alcoholic liquids and for a thousand years have, more or less, kept their total abstinence principles. Apart from the Turk, who is the bloodthirsty tiger of his race, the Mahometanes, as total abstainers, are amongst the luniest and, as far as their religion is concerned, the most progressive races of the East. Has total abstinence, we ask, anything to do with it. The testimony remains. Every progressive race must necessarily be temperate. It can only be temperate amongst semi-barbarous people by curtailment of alcohol in any form, especially in war time. Mahometanism stands where it is chiefly in its handling of the question. The teeming masses of China were once as drunken as any in Europe till total prohibition forbade it. Then they took to opium, latterly forced upon them by British arms. Both are prohibited now on pain of being beheaded. In India today the Abkari system entrusts all liquors into the hands of the Government by licence alone, and may be more or less a curse or a blessing according to the freedom with which those who handle the licences are permitted to use it. In India we are up against the date palm tree, whose juice in the morning is a temperance drink, by midday is a half and half moderate drinker's liquor, and by evening is the drunkard's debauch, usually accentuated by caustic poison drawn from the prickly pear tree. But the Government holds a licence over these also. So society in India is comparatively safe. The only danger is the white man's whisky, which is comparatively free and is imported, but the price is beyond the reach of the multitude. India is safe except from liquor evils.

A striking success in local option and Government control of alcohol is shown in what is known as the Gothenburg system of licensing. Sweden until last century was by all accounts and statistics, the most drunken country in Europe. There was a free use of spirits, which could be manufactured in any private house. Since the Gothenburg system was introduced now all over Sweden and Denmark, the profits from the sale of liquor at limited places and times, go entirely towards city charities, in keeping up the hospitals. Sweden today by every evidence of health, crime and progressive development is the soberest, most law-abiding, and apparently one of the most progressive nations in Europe, attributed almost entirely to the limitations of the use of alcohol. Are we to believe that this once drunken nation can reform in one generation from the evils of an age-long intemperance, and the now virile nations sprung from the Old World and planted in new soil cannot do the same?

In the purely wine growing districts of Europe there is no drunkenness except where distilled liquors have been introduced to take the place of the mixed native wine of Bible times, Christ's wine cup, the mystic wine. One is safe in striking the average that where native beer or wine is used freely there is no drunkenness to speak of because the percentage of alcohol in such naturally fermented liquors is small, and not beyond what an ordinary man can carry safely. In its purity this is the natural drink of mankind in various forms, all over the world. The trouble of a modern age is the development of the modern distillery that supplies the poison, which from every evidence of science, statistics and crime is detrimental to humanity under all conditions and in all climates. The human body, it is true, is a small but harmless distillery, but it is a natural one. We have to thank the chemists of the middle ages for the mechanical distillery. This inheritance, one would wish were kept within the pharmacy, and not used world wide, usually by irresponsible companies and individuals for the demoralization of humanity. The most go-ahead races in the world today are our American cousins. If they were to get ahead of the world in every department of life, they would have to cut out alcohol, and have, in a certain measure, done so. It seems more than likely they are going to remain on the top. Whether it is the selfishness of the almighty dollar that drives them to it, it is hard to say. But every nation that hopes to compete with them will have to follow suit or go down, for it is plain from every evidence of statistics and social and moral obligations that this is the only safe road to follow when dealing with spirituous liquors, and indeed the whole evidence of past history of the world bears it out.

Prohibition in some form will have to remain with us in Canada if we are to cope with the evils of the past and the possible social and moral evils that lie dormant in a largely migrant population that seems likely to come to us in the next few years.

W. G. H. ELLISON.

Port Renfrew, October 18, 1920.

Which?

Sir,—After reading many letters to the press of British Columbia, and having listened to discussions on "Bone Dry" vs. "Government Control," and otherwise using my eyes and ears, I have come to the conclusion that the Government Control people base their statements on facts, whereas the Bone Dry arguments are based on theories which have proved ineffective—or worse. What little good Prohibition accomplished was due to the fact that it came in as a war measure.

1. The people who habitually used alcoholic beverages to excess are, for the most part, doing so today; but Prohibition increased the cost financially and medically.

2. The middle-aged moderate drinker finds himself subjected to the liability of substitution, the certainty of increased prices and the temptation of conducting his own brewing and distillation.

3. This practice has already grown to such proportions in the homes as to prove that no effort by the police could control it and the produce is usually more harmful than whisky.

4. In a city in Vermont, U.S.A. in the year 1849, after many years of Bone Dry legislation the writer, then a minor, found that hotels, drug stores and groceries were selling whisky, both wholesale and retail. A similar state of affairs existed in Ontario's Scott Act towns, except that the hotels were not selling anything stronger than beer to minors, while the blind pigs were.

5. In 1888 the professional reformers stated that 95 per cent of the male inmates of Canadian asylums were there as a result of smoking cigarettes. A year or two ago the same people stated that over 90 per cent of the asylum population was due to the use of alcohol. Why this change? Were either of these statements near the truth? Ask the alienists or the "Mounties."

6. We have been told that the mothers of illegitimate children are unanimous in blaming their trouble on the use of alcohol and last night were informed that those suffering from venereal disease in London hospitals made similar statements. How many human beings would fail to lay the blame for their "bloomers" on an outside agency when asked to do so? Yet these uplifters would have us believe that under Bone Dry Prohibition there would have been no venereal disease. Everyone should know how rampant venereal disease became in India after the repeal of the contagious disease act, and among natives who do not use alcohol.

There was so much clever acting and poetry and so little truth at two recent Prohibition meetings, that I was reminded of a verse written by Henry Luttrell, 1765-1851, which, with the alteratinn of two syllables readn:

"O that there might in B. C. be
A duty on Hypocrisy,
A tax on humbug, an excise
On solemn plausibilities."

Henry Luttrell, 1765 to 1851.

Dr. Hall's Teachings

Sir,—I take it that we are to assume that Dr. Ernest Hall's numerous letters to the papers form the essential part of that education which is to precede the legislation which he desires.

It is the function of the conscientious student to comment upon and question the teachings of the respected pedagogue.

Considering myself, therefore, as the pupil and taking as my lesson the Doctor's letter appearing in last Saturday's edition of The Times, I submit the following comments:

The first paragraph of the letter is, I confess, unintelligible to me, although in deference to the Doctor, I imagine that the compositors are to blame.

The second paragraph with its tragic recital about a family, certain or hypothetical—I am not clear as to which is intended—is very agonizing indeed. On the other hand the fact as reported by the Doctor that the family was "little" goes some way towards alleviating the horror of the thing. For example had it been a "large" family, of say ten or a dozen "beautiful bright children," it would have been vastly more terrible, especially if there had been insufficient cupboards within which to secret themselves.

"Even moderate drinking destroys the physical bases of the higher psychic activities," writes the Doctor. This, indeed, does sound particularly dreadful; but I am almost certain that I have met men who were moderate drinkers, and yet were honest, enterprising and clever men of business, and in their social relations genial and loving souls. Perhaps though, they were not highly "psychic," certainly, they were not objectionably so.

"Moderate drinking," the Doctor says, "Creates a callousness to the sufferings of others." This is a passage in my lesson I find especial difficulty in assimilating; for I am quite unable to dispossess myself of the idea that somewhere or other—perhaps it was on the battlefield—I have encountered a man, who, at least a moderate drinker, yet showed some symptoms of a kindly heart.

Then comes the Doctor's expression of sweet forgiveness, to be immediately followed by what seems to be a vehement contradiction of that kindly sentiment.

The effect produced upon me by the closing paragraphs of the letter is weird and wonderful.

The words "check," "thwart" and "force" ring in my ears; I am transported in a flash through the bygone ages; I witness countless scenes of bloodshed; I see the inquisitorial torture chamber; I glimpse Paris on a certain night of Saint Bartholemew's; one moment I sense the cold steel of the guillotine poised above my guilty neck, the next, the burning faggot at my feet. In an instant the scene changes and I am in Amiens, at "Josephine's, the menu card before me. I order a lobster mayonnaise and a bottle of chambertin; I see Madamoiselle Josephine herself approaching with my order; she places before me a platter upon which is a scroll bearing this legend:

"True happiness is only to be found in learning to serve with loving kindness your fellow men. A certain man of Galilee can best show you the way. Do not be misled by those who claim to be in his service but are in reality the slaves of selfishness and intemperance.

"Realize the essential oneness of the spirit of men; but know also that in this vast chimera of material existence, which you would call life, diversity is the only universal quality.

"You will not then judge too harshly of your fellow men whose environment is never quite your own.

"To banish evil, you must look good."

I rise from the table and have never felt better satisfied.

No! Doctor, I am forced to wonder for whom your education is really intended; surely it cannot be for that vast mass of criminality represented by the moderate drinkers. Can it be, I wonder, that you seek by gross misrepresentation, by exaggeration of half truths and by hysterical imagery to gull the impressionable section of the electorate into giving you the authority to tyrannize over those of your fellows, whom, it would appear, you have not the ability to educate? Would it not be better for your cause and more honest on your part at least to try to educate these poor sinners, whom in one breath you forgive and in the next threaten with all the ruthless force of your possible majority? Why do you not try to do this by sane and cogent reasoning, represented in clear and unembellished statements of facts? No worthy cause needs to be bolstered up with specious theory. From the manner in which, so far, you have presented your case, it is quite obvious that something is amiss; either Dr. Ernest Hall or the rest of the world is wrong; since, if we are to accept your theories concerning the evil effects of alcohol as being correct and not the least bit overstated, then the world must inevitably be populated entirely by lunatics. With all due deference, while I am prepared to concede that we may be mostly fools, I submit that we are not all lunatics.

Therefore, to my mind, your theories are exaggerated; in other words intemperance has guided your pen.

Once again, O Hall and others, I would bid you be temperate and wisely tolerant; but above all to beware lest you mistake in yourselves a personal dislike for the fermented juice, for the quintessence of the Christian virtues.

Prohibition

Sir,—Soon your columns will close the debates concerning "Old John Barleycorn," so kindly spare a little of your valuable space for the benefit of those who are not aware of the underhand methods used by the Prohibitionists (or, rather the mean and unscrupulous actions they use.

Last January I spent a short vacation in California. Whilst there several of their tainted methods came to my notice. First, after Prohibition went into effect, the pros, not satisfied with that, got busy right away to try and pass a bill through Congress to prohibit any American citizen from obtaining intoxicating liquors while touring other countries.

Second, the Town of Tia Juana, Mexico, received on an average about 20,000 visitors daily through the vacation period. The drys thought out another base plan, in the form of a bill to be passed, to charge everyone crossing into Mexico the sum of ten dollars (thinking the tourists would hesitate paying that amount for the privilege of getting a drink).

Take it from me, Mr. Editor, their actions will make Jesse James look like an amateur.

We have tried Prohibition, and what have we to show for it; nothing, only the names of some of our citizens in the police records for drinking squirrel whisky.

But Wednesday will decide the issue, I hope, when every broad-minded citizen will cast his or her vote for Government Control, and snow under all this narrow-mindedness.

Let us all remember that freedom to think and act is the first prerogative of man. Let your declaration of independance have in it freedom for others as well as for yourself.

We rejoice in laws, because they guard our liberty—not because they interfere with it.

One suggestion before closing; if Prohibition carries on Wednesday, how would it be to give the vegetarians a chance at the next election to prohibit us eating meat, for I think they have just as much right.

A Prohibitionists Viewpoint

Sir,—You have had many letters on anti-Prohibition. Some of great length, which, when all put together, did not contain much useful information. I will give you a short, little one from the high and dry side of the fence. The wets say we are interfering with their liberty. It is quite the opposite. We are trying to insure and preserve their liberty from the jails, the mad houses, and the grave, for is it not a proven fact(and well myself knows it) that alcohol hastens multitudes of the human race to those places. We on the dry side of the fence, Mr. Editor, can well imagine what it will be like should the wets win. It will be, to use a railroad man's expression: "Turn her loose again, Jimmy (engineer) and let her rip," and that will be their finish.

Man's Inhumanity to Man

Sir,—This is the twentieth century of Christianity, the fundamental principle of which is humility and love, and yet today the inhumanity of man to man is even worse than in the dark ages, for in the dark ages men knew no better, witches were burnt because the superstitious could not account, in their ignorance, for certain acts, which they therefore put down to witchcraft. In this age we are supposed to know better, and yet what do we do?

We see a drunken man in the street, we turn away in disgust, and say away to goal with him. Let him be put away so that we do not see him, and there it ends so far as we are concerned. We go our way, and thank God that we are not as other men. Yet, how many of us care just what caused that man's drunkenness, what suffering he goes through while in goal, and when the craving comes on? Drink is put down to viciousness, and because mental will-o-the-wisps are found amongst drunkards, some doctors put it down at once to drink as the cause. We find their descendants also addicted to drink, and the same doctors immediately jump to the conclusion

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The British Colonist of October 20, 1870.)

Beginning of Canned Salmon Industry.—A few days ago five hundred cases of canned salmon were shipped from San Francisco in a vessel bound for England. Shipments also have been made to Australia, and they met with a ready sale at remunerative prices. There is no doubt that a profitable market can be had for the large quantities of fish being put up on the Coast this season, with the prospect of a larger trade in the future.

Completing Telegraphic Circuit.—It is said that the Western Union Telegraph Company has arranged to transmit all dispatches hereafter from San Francisco to Chicago direct, and without rewriting. This makes a working circuit of two thousand seven hundred miles, the longest in the world. Transaction of business will be greatly facilitated by this arrangement.

Esquimalt Schools.—At a public meeting of the inhabitants of the Esquimalt School District, held at Esquimalt, the following were chosen to act on the local School Board for the ensuing year: Rev. F. Griffiths, Charles B. Pooley, Esq., and W. F. Wakefield, Esq.

B. C. Electric Company Advise Reeve and Councillors That Additional Service Will Be Granted

At the regular meeting of the Esquimalt council last night, the intention of the B. C. Electric Railway Company to restore the extra car service between the hours of one and eight p.m. was announced. The council had written to the company asking that an extra car be put on during the aforementioned hours and the reply of the company stated that in the usual course of events the company discontinued this extra service at this time of the year, but that in this instance they hoped shortly to resume it.

TRANSFER QUARTER MILLION OF BONDS

Ald. Andros Against Exchange of Registered to Bearer Variety to Facilitate Purchase of New Securities

The City Council last night authorized City Comptroller James L. Raymur to arrange for the transfer of $250,000 of the city's Dominion Government registered bonds to bearer bonds with a view to investment in other securities.

This action was recommended by the finance committee and sponsored by its chairman, Ald. W. J. Sargent. Ald. E. B. Andros, the committee's most unruly member, again "bolted" and attacked the plan, engaging in a heated debate with Ald. Sargent.

Ald. Sargent said it had been proposed to change the city's holdings of 1925 bonds to 1934's bearing ½ per cent more interest, amounting to $1,250 a year, or $17,500 spread over fourteen years when the bonds would mature. The 1934 bonds, he said, would be taxable, but this would only interest individual holders, as the city would not have to pay. He said that bond dealers usually asked for bearer bonds in open market transactions and it was, therefore ,desirable to get this class and dispose of the registered variety.

Ald. Andros said he had refused to sign the committee report and in a general tirade against the proposition said that the city had a lot of bearer bonds "knocking around downstairs in antiquated safes that could be opened with a jack-knife. We didn't get registered bonds with our eyes shut, and if we must change them now, we should get securities in exchange that are worth while. I know of some that will bear 2 per cent more than we are now offered. It is not our province to gamble in stocks. Our sinking funds can't be handled too carefully."

Ald. Sargent Passes Lie

Ald. Sargent declared that the statements of Ald. Andros were unqualifiedly false and said it would be "a very serious condition of affairs" if these assertions were freely circulated. He defended the city's vault system, pointing out that there were only two effective keys to the safe, one being held by the city and the other by the manager of the Bank of British North America. He said that after 1925 the balance of the city's holdings of Victory Bonds would probably be popular in the public market. Where they were now selling at around 93, they would soon be at a premium, he predicted. He agreed that the city should not speculate, but he questioned whether transfer of Government bonds came within that category. Since the finance committee's meeting, he said, a bond agent had quoted 1934's at 93 cents bearing 5½ per cent, and had been willing to take 1925's at 93.07.

"I'm glad that these things have been looked after so well, but that doesn't alter the fact that people are likely to pay more for non-taxable than they are for taxable," persisted Ald. Andros. "This Council is everlastingly changing and chopping around. Why did we ever get the bonds if we aren't satisfied with them? The trouble is that we are subject to a lot of bond-dealers who come here with tables and put it all over us—over me. I don't like to tell them they don't know what they are talking about. The result is that they get the bonds and we get left."

Ald. Sargent said that not a single agent had offered a farthing more than the terms that had been suggested. "I don't care personally what Ald. Andros says, but I don't like to have it spread about."

"They don't bother about what I'm saying," assured Ald. Andros; who was the only member who voted against the change.

TO ADDRESS BOARD ON IMPERIAL TRADE

Mr. Evans J. Edwards, His Majesty's Senior Commissioner in Canada, Here Next Month —Transportation Matter

Mr. Evans J. Edwards, His Majesty's senior trade commissioner to Canada and Newfoundland, will address a luncheon of the Board of Trade to be held early in November, it was announced yesterday.

The council of the Board of Trade was informed by Mr. J. J. Shallcross, Imperial trade correspondent here, that Mr. Edwards will arrive in Victoria November 5, and that he is prepared to address the Board of Trade on inter-Imperial trade relations.

Capt. J. W. Troup, manager of the B.C. Coast Service of the Canadian Pacific Railway, replied yesterday to the Board of Trade's representations in support of the Courtenay-Comox Board of Trade's efforts to have the Summer sailings of the Princess Patricia between Vancouver and Nanaimo maintained during the Winter. Captain Troupe stated that this suggestion was impracticable, but that the company would do its best under Winter conditions.

The Board decided to ask Mr. R. C. L. Clark, Dominion fruit inspector at Vancouver, for an interpretation of the word "seasonal" as applied to the appointment of a district inspector in Victoria.

A resolution criticising the Government for calling a half-holiday today in view of Monday being a whole holiday was passed, and a committee composed of Messrs. George I. Warren, R. B. Price and J. F. Scott was appointed to investigate.

LONG LITIGATION ENDS BY PLAINTIFF'S ACTION

Mr. R. T. Elliott, K.C., Wins Suit Against Him for Sums Connected With Famous Coal Property Purchase

The end of litigation which has been taken into various courts of the Province during the last ten years, and the material of which has formed the issue of several actions at law, was witnessed in the Supreme Court yesterday, when Mr. R. T. Elliott, K.C., obtained judgment in the suit brought against him by Mr. Ephriam E. Hodgson to recover the sum of $25,000. The suit came to a sudden termination, after Mr. Elliott had been cross-examined by Mr. W. J. Taylor, K.C., counsel for the plaintiff. When the court reconvened after the luncheon hour adjournment, Mr. Taylor rose and informed the court that the plaintiff was willing that judgment with costs should be given for the defendant.

The plaintiff's claim was made by way of an action for garnishee of the sum of $25,000, being the amount of claim by plaintiff against Mr. Geo. B. French, which amount plaintiff alleged was owing by Mr. Elliott to Mr. French. The sum in question was part of $100,000 which Mr. Elliott testified he had paid in 1910, to agents of Mr. French in full acquittal of all claims against him by Mr. French in respect of the commission paid to Mr. Elliott for the negotiation of the sale of the Dunsmuir coal properties to Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann, in the same year.

Evidence adduced by the plaintiff showed that Mr. Hodgson had obtained a judgment against Mr. French for the sum of $25,000, being part of the money paid to the latter's agents by Mr. Elliott. Plaintiff contended that Mr. Elliott had paid only $75,000 of this amount, and that $25,000 had been held back by the latter, pursuant to an agreement with the agents of Mr. French.

Defendant's Evidence

Mr. Elliott went into the box and swore that he had, in January, 1910, previously to the sale, agreed to pay to George B. French $100,000, through Hamilton & Ferguson, the agents of French, when the coal deal was completed.

"It was first agreed that I should pay over $75,000 and hang on to $25,000," said Mr. Elliott. "But the whole $100,000 was paid, and paid that day. The documents clearly show that they got the $100,000. The final settlement was for $100,000, which I paid in full."

Mr. Elliott produced the release from the debt which Mr. French signed on the receipt of the $100,000.

"Do you, therefore, owe Mr. French any money?" Mr. Maclean asked.

"No, sir, I have never owed him anything since I got that voucher from Mr. Kerr," Mr. Elliott replied.

"Has he commenced any action against you to enforce any demand?"

"No, sir."

Cross-examined by Mr. Taylor, Mr. Elliott testified that he had received a letter from Mr. Hodgson claiming money.

"All parties had said that Hodgson was going to bring an action and so they held up the $25,000," Mr. Elliott went on. "Then they changed their minds and they wanted the $25,000, and I paid it."

"How long was the time in which they changed their minds?" Mr. Taylor asked.

"In just a couple of hours, while they were out for lunch," replied Mr. Elliott. "I didn't have sufficient object in keeping the money if they wanted it, because I paid it over."

After the luncheon hour adjournment, Mr. Taylor announced that the plaintiff was willing that judgment should be given for Mr. Elliott. Mr. Justice Morrison made the order accordingly, with costs.

Mr. W. J. Taylor, K.C., and Mr. A. Brethour appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. H. A. Maclean, K.C., for the defendant.

FIRST MAIL-BY-AIR NIGHT FLIGHT MADE

Pilot Hubbard Makes Journey to Seattle After Dark With Mails From Alabama Maru —Bags Not Ready

The first night flight of the new mail-by-air service instituted by the United States Government between here and Seattle to speed up Pacific mails was made by Air Pilot Edward Hubbard last night. He left here at 7:15 with eight bags of mail from the Alabama Maru which docked at 6:15 from the Orient. The moon was shining as the seaplane rose from the Inner Harbor and made off on her return journey to the Sound.

The Alabama Maru left Yokohama before the new air service was instituted, and so the mail to be carried by air had not been set aside in separate bags. The Japanese officers were delighted with the new scheme of things, and did their best to speed up the sorting out of United States letter mail for the air pilot. Some delay was caused through the bags not being ready, but this delay will be eliminated in future as the bags will be segregated.

Pilot Hubbard had his small machine here last night, and so took only about four hundred pounds of mail, contained in eight bags. On the journey here from Seattle the airman took his time, not reaching here until well over an hour from the time he started.

IN THE COURTS

Supreme Court.

The suit of Storie vs. Hill came on for trial in the Supreme Court yesterday before Mr. Justice Morrison. Plaintiff's claim was for the sum of $600, being the amount of a judgment obtained against the defendant by the plaintiff, in a court of New York, U. S. A., in 1903. The original suit on which that judgment had been obtained, and which the plaintiff testified had never been paid, was for the alienation of the affections of plaintiff's husband. Mr. John R. Green, who appeared for the plaintiff, informed the learned judge that the defense had made an offer of settlement, which he as counsel considered fair, and which he had endeavored without success, to induce his client to accept. After listening to evidence by the plaintiff, Mr. Justice Morrison said he thought the plaintiff should accept the offer made by the defense. After an adjournment for private discussion between counsel and plaintiff, Mr. Green announced that his client had accepted an offer of $400 in cash and a mortgage on certain Calgary property. The learned judge ordered judgment in accordance with this settlement. Mr. R. C. Lowe appeared for the defendant.

Supreme Court Chambers

In Supreme Court Chambers yesterday Mr. Clove White, acting for Mr. Justice Martin, of the Court of Appeal, resumed his adjourned application to Mr. Justice Morrison in the matter of the pending suits between Mr. Justice Martin and Miss S. Finlayson. The suits involve certain property of Judge Martin's, in Victoria, on which Miss Finlayson holds mortgages. There are two suits involved, one in which Mr. Justice Martin is the plaintiff, the other in which he is the defendant. Mr. White is seeking a stay of the action in which his client is the defendant, until the other has been tried. Much argument ensued as to the question of priority, when Mr. H. B. Jackson, K.C., who is acting for Miss Finlayson, yesterday resisted the application of Mr. White. The matter was still undetermined at the adjournment of Chambers yesterday, and will come up again next Thursday.

County Court

In the County Court yesterday, His Honor Judge Lampman gave judgment for the plaintiff in the suit of Briggs vs. Johnson, in the sum of $63.75, which was the amount of plaintiff's claim. The plaintiff showed that the money was due on a promissory note. Mr. F. L. Shaw appeared for the plaintiff.

CANON SCOTT URGES RESORT TO BALLOT

VANCOUVER, Oct. 19.—"Any organization whether it be capital or labor that tries to dominate the government of the country except by the battot is robbing the country of its national life.

"In the honest, thoughtful use of the ballot is the only hope of getting the Government in close touch with the home. In the past and present we have had and will have industrial troubles, and by better housing conditions and homes for the working classes and in mutual bonds of sympathy between employer and employee lies the principle of hearty co-operation."

These words, coming from a man known throughout the length and breadth of Canada as one of the strongest advocates of anything that tends to promote national unity and Canadianship, and known in France as the soldiers' favorite padre, did much to impress the members of the Canadian Club at the luncheon today. The speaker was Colonel the Rev. Canon Scott, C.M.G.

Police evidence was to the effect that a bottle of Scotch whisky had been found in defendant's hip pocket; and that the condition of defendant when so found would justify the assumption that he had been sampling the contents of the bottle.

Official Stay Too Short—The G. W. V. A. committee of Comrades Winsby, Clearihue and Axon that was to have waited upon the C.N.R. officials during their visit to Victoria were unable to arrange the interview in time owing to the brief nature of the stay of the railway heads here. The intention of the deputation was to obtain assurance that in any work at the Ogden Point piers veterans would receive preference in employment.

Aid of Navy League—The collection to be taken in different banks and business establishments in aid of the Navy League on Thursday will be under the auspices of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. The different chapters will receive tags and receptacles at the I. O. D. E. headquarters, Jones Block, all day today. The headquarters on Trafalgar Day, October 21, will be the View Street entrance of Messrs. David Spencer, Ltd.

Fourth Annual Reunion—Members of the Victoria West Brotherhood and their families will hold their annual get-together tomorrow evening in Semple's Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock. President Foxwell, assisted by an energetic committee, has prepared an interesting and diversified programme, and all attending are guaranteed a good time. As this is the beginning of a series of Winter events, it is hoped that there will be a good turnout.

Permit Granted—"That's a funny combination," remarked Ald. Joseph Patrick last night, when an application was filed by Mr. W. J. Wheeler for permission to erect a garage and sausage factory in the Fernwood district. Mr. Wheeler explained that the front of the building will be used as a garage and the rear for the factory. "If Mr. Wheeler had a cage or two and a tannery, the plant would be complete," added Ald. Patrick, as the permit was ordered granted.

Girls' Corner Club — Girls of the Corner Club will celebrate Thanksgiving day tomorrow at the clubrooms, I.O.O.F. Hall, Douglas Street. Supper, which will be a special Thanksgiving one, will be served at 6:15 p.m., and all members are asked to be present. From 7 to 8 o'clock will be a social hour, and the girls have prepared a programme of songs and recitations. Any business girls are welcome at these meetings, and a warm welcome will be given any who are strangers in the city.

Argument As to Lottery—Argument by opposing counsel was resumed in the city police court yesterday in the case of E. A. Morris, Limited, charged with conducting a scheme in connection with their Government Street tobacconist's business, in contravention with the law against lotteries. Mr. Frank Higgins, K. C., counsel for the defendants, cited authorities in support of his contention that the practice in question did not come within the legal definition of a lottery. City Prosecutor Harrison was heard on the other side. Magistrate Jay reserved his judgment until next Friday.

Charge Fails—The charge against Captain Alan Ferguson of permitting drunkenness to take place in his home came up on remand in the City Police Court yesterday, and was dismissed by Magistrate Jay after listening to the evidence. The police evidence was that they had been notified to go to defendant's house, on account of a drunken disturbance there, and found a longshoremen's carousal in progress on their arrival. Mr. W. C. Moresby, who appeared for the defence, obtained a dismissal of the charge on the ground that no direct evidence had been given to connect defendant with the specific charge.

Victoria Dramatic Society — The usual fortnightly meeting of the Victoria Dramatic and Operatic Society will be held at their new quarters, the Arion Club Rooms, 1004 Government Street, this evening at 8:15. After the business session an entertainment programme convened by Mrs. S. C. Clark will be presented. Henceforth all meetings of the society will be held fortnightly in the above club room and it is hoped that members will accept this intimation in lieu of the periodical announcements of meetings which have hitherto been made, as the rapid growth of the organization has considerably increased the secretarial work.

No Evidence of Ownership—The charge against Lee Hong and Lim John Charlie of having liquor in an unlawful place was dismissed in the City Police Court yesterday. The police evidence showed that two bottles of Chinese liquor had been found in a room back of the store occupied by the defendants in the Bell Block, Cook Street. Magistrate Jay said there was no evidence to connect the accused with the liquor. Mr. H. H. Shandley, who appeared for the housekeeper of the building, also charged with the offence, said that it was making a farce of the Prohibition Act to bring such a charge against his client. The charge against the latter defendant was also dismissed. Mr. W. C. Moresby appeared for the accused Chinamen.

TWO HOLIDAYS TOO MANY, COUNCIL TOLD

Alderman Todd Voices Protest Against Government for To-day's Conditions — Election Coming, Mayor Says

Members of the City Council, notably Ald. Todd, were stirred to wrath last night as a result of the calling of a holiday today on account of the plebiscite.

"It is an extraordinary thing and we should protest against it," declared Ald. Todd. "We have had one holiday already this week. I think that there is altogether too little consideration given to the business interests of the city in matters of this kind. A full holiday has been called for the schools. I can't for the life of me see the reason for that. The children aren't entitled to vote and the teachers would have plenty of time after school hours to cast their ballot.

"It is desirable that there should be a big vote today, but the holiday will work to the contrary effect," continued the alderman. "It is human nature for a person to get the most out of a holiday and a great many people will go out of town and ignore the polling booths altogether. We should go on record as being opposed to this kind of thing."

Ald. Patrick said it was a matter for the Government and the Council had no business to interfere.

"I maintain that the Government has no right to pass legislation that affects the people in this way," Ald. Todd went on.

Mayor Porter sympathized with the alderman. "For a whole week we have been looking in vain for enlightenment from the Attorney-General's Department and today the Deputy Attorney-General rang up the Police Department and pointed out that no penalty would be charged if stores remained open."

"A joker," remarked Ald. Andros.

"Extraordinary things happen before elections," said the Mayor. "This may not be extraordinary after all."

MR. ANDREW MONCUR HAS PASSED AWAY

Member of Merchants Bank Staff Died Yesterday—Served With Princess Pats and Was Wounded

The death occurred yesterday at the Esquimalt Military Hospital of Andrew Moncur, son of Mr. Charles Moncur, of Brunton Terrace, Edinburgh, Scotland, formerly secretary of the Northwestern Railway. The late Andrew Moncur, who was in his twenty-ninth year, enlisted with the Prince Rupert contingent, at Hazelton, in 1914, arrived in Victoria on November 6, and joined the 30th Battalion and transferred to the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry at Valcartier. He left for overseas on January 6, 1915. He was wounded in France during May, 1916, and returned to Canada in November of the same year, and was a patient at Resthaven Military Hospital for six months, after which he joined the Merchants Bank as receiving teller. Mr. E. W. McMullen, the manager of the local branch, praises the late Mr. Moncur very highly and stated that his presence will be very much missed by the customers and the staff. The late Mr. Moncur was a member of the C.G.W. Football team. The funeral will take place at 3:30 o'clock on Friday afternoon.

LIVELY PASSAGES AT "DRY" MEETING

Returned Men Take Exception to Former Labor Member's Statements—Want His War Record—Final Appeal

The chairman's call for the singing of the National Anthem warded off what looked like a promising squall at last night's meeting of Prohibitionists in the Princess Theatre when a number of returned soldiers showed a keen interest in the war record of Mr. Tom Richardson, former labor member in England and who, during the present plebiscite campaign, has been enlisted by the "dry" element as a speaker.

Mr. Richardson was subjected to a number of questions, one directed to ascertaining where he stood in the war. The questioner, a veteran of many wars, asserted the erstwhile labor member was one of the "Ramsay Macdonald squad" and was about to elaborate his point when Chairman H. A. Beckwith, interposed by stating that Mr. Richardson had had the same question put to him at a Duncan meeting and it had been decided that as the meeting was one devoted purely to a discussion of the great isue of Prohibition versus Government Control and in no sense had any other bearing, Mr. Richardson need not answer the question. The persistent questioner was proceding to tell just what he thought of Mr. Richardson's war record but Mr. Beckwith called for some one to lead off with God Save the King and the meeting concluded.

Support Prohibition

This incident coupled with a sudden elimination of the lighting for a brief period were the only two features that might be said to have marred an otherwise placid gathering, the majority of whom were plainly sympathetic to Prohibition. The Theatre was well filled downstairs but the gallery contained but few people. It could not be said to have been over enthusiastic though the arguments in favor of Prohibition were well received and references to a possible "bone-dry" condition were loudly applauded. It was the final appeal of the Prohibitionists in the campaign which will be decided today. The proceedings were enlivened by a spirited call from Rev. R. M. Thompson for a liberal collection to defray the expenses of the meeting.

"This is said to be the last dying gasp of liquor," declared Dr. Ernest Hall, who prophesied a sweeping victory for Prohibition. "The booser is down and out. We don't need to worry about him. It is the moderate drinker we are after," he asserted and remarked, anent the attitude assumed by some members of his own profession on the question of liquor. "For clear-cut and fool superstition the medical profession can't be beat. I could have got an auto every two weeks if I had stooped to some of the degradation some of our people have stooped to.", He asserted some of the arguments in favor of government control as they appeared in The Colonist had been "some of the most blasphemous, degrading, contemptible things I had ever read."

Predicts Dry Spell

Mrs. J. W. deB. Farris, introduced by the chairman as one who would be listened to with interest because she is the wife of Attorney-General Farris, though he was careful to explain she was expressing only her own personal opinions, was glad the rain had ceased. She opined British Columbia is in for a lengthy spell of dry weather. She felt that in view of the great moral question involved it was her duty to take a decided stand on the issue now before the electors. She was sure the people, whatever her views, would be glad to know that the wife of the man upon whom they had placed such great and serious trust, has abiding faith in their integrity and desire for the best welfare of the Province.

There was one phase of the question, Mrs. Farris stated, that she wished to touch upon—the moral and economic aspect of Prohibition. The stress of war upon the many millions who directly or indirectly had been taken from their accustomed avocations and turned to the work of distruction was responsible for the destructive criticism so prevalent today. Yet a survey of what Prohibition had done during the four years it had been in force in British Columbia would convince the most skeptical, she believed, of its necessity and its worth. Production has been increased, she claimed, and thrift encouraged.

In support of her arguments Mrs. Farris quoted figures to refute the statements that drunkenness is as common as formerly. Instead the old bar premises are occupied by flourishing businesses. Never had business conditions been better in British Columbia; never was there a time when the clear brain and bright eye were more needed.

Some Figures

The 1917 figures of 2,372 convictions for drunkenness in this Province had been reduced to 778 last year; prisoners in the New Westminster penitentiary had decreased from 287 in 1917 to 114 in February of this year. Further, four jails have been closed and, she had been informed at Nelson, the jail there would soon close so few prisoners were forthcoming. In 1912 there were 430 new companies formed in the first six months. That was the banner year in business. This year in a like period 499 companies had been incorporated. That thrift is being practiced was proved by Mrs. Farris, who pointed to present day drinks costing not more than twenty-five cents compared with the pre-Prohibition wine list where as high as $2.50 was charged. Eleven millions was British Columbia's liquor bill in the year preceding Prohibition, Mrs. Farris claimed. Today it was not more than two millions. The last Victory loan had been oversubscribed nine millions. Perhaps she suggested, that fact was due to Prohibition. She did not make the claim that Prohibition was wholly responsible for the decrease in the death rate from tuberculosis, but it was significant that in 1918 the death rate from that cause, out of a population of 382,000, was 1.08 per cent, whereas in 1919, in a population of 529,000, it had decreased by twenty-five per cent. Much had been said about Prohibition breeding lawbreakers, but had not the old liquor laws been broken? Mrs. Farris asked. In fact the great reduction in drinking had accentuated those cases where drinking took place.

Tea Table Chat

"We women at our afternoon teas hear of orgies of drinking, but when there was no prohibition we did not talk about them because they were so common," said Mrs. Farris, who, however, believed that many people had expected too much in too short a time. "Prohibition had stood by its friends much better than many of its friends had stood by it. She decried the argument that were government control made effective much revenue would flow into British Columbia through the tourists attracted here. But the liquor would have to be consumed here to the detriment of the standards of morality. While government control might be workable under some forms of government she could not imagine where it would benefit a democratic country where, perhaps, a "wet" Legislature might be elected which would force the government to bring down "wet" legislation. To approve of the present Prohibition act would be paving the way to bone dry conditions and thereby effect the elimination of the bootlegger.

Mrs. Farris concluded with a plea for Prohibition based upon the need of the child. As a result of four years of the present act child life is better cared for, better protected and assured of a brighter future than ever before.

"Do you want a condition where your son can buy a bottle when he dons his first pair of long trousers; your girl have a cocktail at her afternoon tea," concluded Mrs. Farris, amid applause.

Favors Temperance

"I am not a teetotaller. That is why I am here tonight. The fact is I have taken a whisky and soda, a cocktail—I may yet take another—but I am a temperance man," declared Col. the Rev. A. G. Wells, C.M.G., a veteran of the Great War, who asserted the issue before the people is not a religious or temperance subject as such, rather a question of citizenship. Had the Government let him know how it proposed to control the sale of liquor, what its policy in respect of the whole question was, it might have been possible he might have supported Government control. But the only question now was whether to stand by what is the law or accept a vague, imaginary thing. He asserted that much had been said about the liberty of the subject, but what was it? Was it the liberty of our ancestors, if one believed in the evolution of species, when monkeys swung by their tails from the trees? The fact was as civilization advanced people were constantly being more restricted in their liberty, and now a man, a member of the state, has lost that licence he once enjoyed in uncivilized days, is bound by laws of the state organized as a whole. Prohibition is not the only law binding on the people. One might as well argue his liberty was being infringed because the state forced his children to go to school or restrains the speed of his motor car.

Evolution

"You are no longer a monkey, you are a man," declared the speaker, who dealt at length with the effect of liquor on the soldiers during the war and, incidentally, brought forth from members of his audience emphatic contradiction. He cited reports compiled by medical officers, both Imperial and Canadian, showing the effects of private disease among the men, asserting the facts showed that seventy-five per cent of the trouble into which the Canadians got themselves overseas was due to liquor.

"It's a lie. I'm a soldier since 1914, and I say it is a lie," came in stentorian tones from the rear of the hall.

Colonel Wells stuck to his statement and a police officer started for the interruptor, while cries of "throw him out" and counter cries were heard, and appeals to the chairman for fair play. Colonel Wells besought the officer to leave the questioner alone. He went on to say that the indisputable fact was, as admitted by the patients themselves, that eighty per cent of the men disabled from disease had been under the influence of liquor when they contracted the disease. He quoted Premier Lloyd George's statement that liquor was more to be feared by Great Britain than the German enemy and referred to appeals made by the best elements in the land to have the liquor traffic eliminated during the war as by its operations Britain's efforts were being seriously prejudiced. True, a single bishop had said he would prefer to see England free rather than England sober but, the speaker asked, why could not England be both free and sober. He was convinced England would become so even in spite of "Pussyfoot" Johnson. He pointed to the fact that the combined wisdom of the Anglican dignitaries has been recorded as favoring all legislation towards temperance. As a priest of that church, even were it contrary to his own personal opinions of liberty, he felt it his duty to accept that dictum and also to follow the teaching of the Saviour, that a man's bounden duty is to refrain from anything that would in any way harm his fellow.

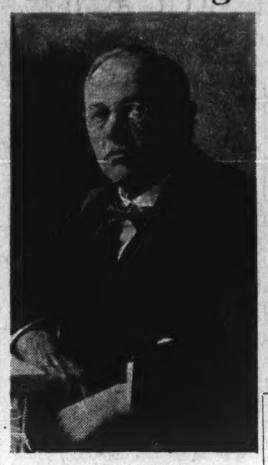

Labor's Stand

Mr. A. S. Wells, President of the local Trades and Labor Council, expressed pleasure at being permitted to align himself with the Prohibition forces. He asserted the majority of working men recognize that prohibition has benefitted them and their families. He noted that in the past four years the men have taken a keener interest in their labor problems. On a recent trip east he had seen but two drunk men and on his whole trip he had not seen a single bottle. In these days the working men needed a clear brain, he said.

Pointing to his association with the labor movement both in British Columbia and in England, Mr. Tom Richardson discussed the subject of prohibition from the standpoint of the labor man. He, himself, had been a life-long total abstainer and a supporter of the policy of the total prohibition of manufacture and sale. He scoffed at the claim that conditions today are worse than in pre-Prohibition days. Rather the contrary was the fact. True, he knew there are parts of the province in which the enforcement of the present act was a veritable scandal, but he held that if everyone as a citizen had been more public spirited, more tenacious in support of the laws of the country, the authorities, even the Attorney-General, would have been forced to bow to public opinion and see to it that proper enforcement of the act was had. Yet in spite of the wilful violations the act had proved of substantial value to the community as a whole and to the working class.

BISHOP CRIDGE CHAPTER

Will Make Donation of Hot Water Bottles to Tuberculosis Ward of Jubilee Hospital

The regular meeting of the Bishop Cridge Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. J. O. Lewis, 1030 Terrace Avenue. The meetings are held at the homes of different members, instead of the Headquarters Rooms, as they combine both the business for the month and the Chapter's Sewing Circle. The Regent, Mrs. Laundy, is out of town and Mrs. Lewis presided at the meeting, there being an attendance of seventeen members.

The Chapter is busily engaged in sewing for the needy among the returned soldier's children. It has been decided to make a donation of six hot water bottles, with covers, to the Tuberculosis Ward of the Jubilee Hospital.

Miss Hall, of Uplands, was appointed the Chapter's representative to the Local Council of Women, and Mrs. A. S. Innes will be the representative to the Patriotic Service Committee.

Three new members were elected. The next meeting will take place on the third Tuesday in November, at Miss Finlayson's home, 1005 Terrace Avenue.

KING'S DAUGHTERS MEET

Good Attendance at Session Held Yesterday—Comforts for the Tranquille Patients

The meeting of the King's Daughters took place yesterday afternoon in the Hibben-Bone Building. Mrs. Dean was in the chair and presided over a good attendance of members. Mrs. H. A. S. Morley, leader of the ministering circle, was unable to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Hearn reported for the Sewing Committee and presented one and a half dozen night shirts for the use of patients in the King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan.

The members propose to send comforts and presents at Christmas to soldiers who were at the Jubilee Hospital during the past year and now are at Tranquille.

Mrs. Hardie reported for the Soldiers' Comfort Committee.

After the meeting was concluded, Mrs. Wilders and Mrs. Wilkinson served refreshments.

The Marriage of Anne

(By May Christie)

XXXVII.—A FORGOTTEN HAND-BAG

"You want the money—now?" Surprise quavered in the phrase.

"I do, indeed. The sooner, the better. That's a first-class business motto." Fred grinned.

"But it isn't the full sum you require. There's the extra thousand coming this evening," I protested.

A shadow crossed Fred's face.

"Little goosey, am I not telling you that I can do business now—this very afternoon—with the fifteen hundred? Then I can accompany you home, and after your tea at the Red Lion Inn is finished, I can meet you and go up to town again with the extra cash, and do more business."

"But—Fred—"

"No 'buts' about it."

"It seems a queer way of doing things." I felt uneasy.

"It's the business way, my dear."

I stared at him, with a worried face.

"The word 'business' seems so elastic!"

"Anne!"

"I mean it, Fred!"

"Mean what?"

"That I don't quite like your methods." I spoke bravely.

"Anne, I'm surprised at you: You don't trust me.— You—you hurt me, Anne."

But I was adamant. I had heard that note too often.

"It isn't that I distrust you, Fred," I explained, "but I don't like being rushed into blind alleys, and that sort of thing. After all, the money's mine. I have some little say in it."

Fred looked dreadfully pained.

"You are crude in your remarks," he said, distantly.

"But I am right."

"A woman's always right." This in sarcastic vein.

Silence between us.

At last I rose to go. I gripped my handbag tight. The precious bills were inside that bag.

"You look as though you'd committed a robbery, and were running off with the spoil," sand Fred sourly, as we left the restaurant together.

I took no notice.

"Anne!"

"Yes? What is it?"

"Anne, dear, I apoligize. You were quite right, and I was wrong. I've been an ass. Forgive me."

"Oh, it's all right, Fred. I'm not angry. Only I want to do this thing properly, in a business way." I emphasized the word "business" rather spitefully. It was Fred's favorite word, and ought to appeal to him.

"What do you mean by 'in a business way'?" he queried, anxiously.

"I ought to have your I.O.U.," I said.

The blood rushed to my companion's face in a hot wave.

"But—we're getting married in two days' time, my dear. These formalities are quite ridiculous between us. Don't—don't be a little goose, my child." He was almost incoherent in his surprise.

I remained firm.

"We can fix it up when we get home. Until then, I keep this money."

We caught a train at half-past two. Again we had a secluded seat to ourselves.

"Anne, please say you care for me. I feel so miserable." Fred slipped an arm about my waist, and drew me close to him.

And I relented.

"Of course I care for you. Haven't I cared for months and months? And haven't I been miserable, too, thinking that you didn't care for me?"

Which was true—if injudicious. It doesn't do to let a man know too much about one's feelings and emotions. The wise woman has reserves.

No further word was said on the question of money, beyond the fact that Fred was to meet me at the Red Lion Inn at six o'clock. I would then hand him over the complete sum of twenty-five hundred dollars, for which he would give me his I.O.U., correctly signed and all.

He would then catch the 6:25 to town and transact his business on arrival. He would come down for me two days later, and we would set off for New York and be married there.

Life seemed very rosy and delightful.

When we reached the country station which was our destination, we got a lift in a private car toward home.

On arriving at the house-boat we found that aunt was out.

I felt relieved. Explanations might be awkward.

Fred went into the saloon, and I hied myself to my cabin. I must smarten up for my forthcoming interview with Neil Saunders — the rather painful interview I dreaded so.

I washed my face rubbed a little cold cream on it, then lightly dusted it with an expensive brand of scented powder.

I added just a tiny dab of color, too. For I looked pale.

"Shall I walk with you, little Anne?" queried my fiance, as I joined him.

"You might come part way. I don't suppose you actually want to meet Neil Saunders?"

"No—that would be an error in tactics, wouldn't it?" was the smiling rejoinder.

We set off together on the country roads.

A quarter of a mile from the Red Lion Inn Fred stopped.

"I'll stroll back toward the house-boat," he said. "Or—no—I'll do nothing of the sort. I'll just wait here, by this milestone, till you come. Will that be all right, Anne?"

I nodded, and proceeded to walk on alone. Oh, how I hated the forthcoming interview!

It was only as I neared the Red Lion Inn that I remembered I had stupidly left my handbag containing the fifteen hundred dollars in bills at home in my cabin on the house-boat!

Tomorrow—Gone!

LADIES' COMMITTEE PLANS ACTIVITIES

Auxiliary to Veterans of France Plan Hallowe'en Party—Take Over Funds of Organization

A meeting of the Ladies' Committee of the Veterans of France was held in the clubrooms of the Association on Tuesday afternoon, a goodly number of members' wives being present.

It was reported that the proceeds of the military whist parties held recently netted the sum of $20.50, which it was suggested should go towards defraying the expenses of an All Hollowe'en party to be held in the clubrooms on Monday, November 1. This suggestion was adopted.

The balance of the fund to the credit of the Ladies' auxiliary to the late Comrades Association, amounting to $18 was, by a vote of the meeting, also devoted to this purpose.

On Monday evening a military five hundred party will be held and all members and their wives are cordially invited to attend.

Further details of the All Hallo'een function will be elaborated at Monday's meeting of the Ladies' Committee.

BUSINESSMEN FEAST IN ABSENCE OF GUEST

While a score or more of Victoria's prominent business men quietly partook of luncheon in the private dining room of the Empress Hotel yesterday at noon, the guest of honor was riding in a parlor coach more than fifteen miles away.

The business men were members of the Board of Trade summoned in haste from a council meeting to attend a luncheon for Mr. D. B. Hanna, chairman of the board of management of the Canadian National Railways. The luncheon was set for 12 o'clock. At 12:15 the little group became anxious and the suggestion that the luncheon proceed in the absence of Mr. Hanna was unanimously adopted. It was expected that Mr. Hanna and the other C.N.R. officials would appear before the function had gone very far. There was no such appearance, however.

After the luncheon was over, Mr. A. C. Flumerfelt, self-appointed ambassador from the C.N.R., addressed the meeting and promised Victoria everything it wanted in the way of transportation development. When someone mentioned the drydock he said this project was outside his jurisdiction.

It was finally explained that it was all due to a misunderstanding. The Board somehow had missed connections with Mr. Hanna and the luncheon invitation had never reached him. Mr. Hanna was surprised when told last night about what he missed. The business men enjoyed their feast, however, but a suggestion to make it a regular event was flatly turned down.

WELCOMES FLIERS

Mr. Norman Yarrow Extended Greetings of Victoria to Trans-Canada Fliers

Mr. Norman Yarrow, head of the local firm of Yarrow's, Ltd., and a civil member of the B. C. Advisory Council of the Air Board, welcomed the trans-Canada fliers on behalf of Victoria when they reached Vancouver on Sunday morning. Mr. Yarrow was accompanied by his secretary, Mr. Robinson.

The aeroplane which made the second half of the flight, from Winnipeg west to the Coast, was piloted by Capt. G. A. Thompson. Commodore A. K. Tylie, commanding officer of the Canadian Air Force Militia, was a passenger. Upon the arrival of the machine at Brighouse Park something in the nature of a reception was held in the clubhouse, when addresses were given by Mayor Gale, a number of men connected with the Air Board, including Mr. Yarrow, who extended the greetings of this city.

Castoria, or Something Else?

FLETCHER'S CASTORIA is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations.

It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

Fletcher's Castoria having been prepared solely for our little-ones, should not be confused with ordinary cure-alls or preparations primarily compounded for grown-ups. The child's organism, so delicate and tender, requires specially prepared medicines and foods, the one no less than the other, as mother-love well knows, and mother-love can not be deceived.

TRANSPORT MEN MAY STOP WORK

London Organization Declares Support for Miners—More Workmen Left Idle—Another Welsh Disturbance

LONDON, Oct. 19.—There were no new developments today in the coal strike. In all the coal regions where the men have laid down their tools order was maintained by the strikers.

One feature tonight which bore possibilities of a widening of the strike was the prospect of the 25,000 London commercial road transport men ceasing work. The men on Saturday night passed a resolution declaring themselves as supporting the miners. A conference was to have been held today to take final action, but the meeting was adjourned until tomorrow. Meantime orders have been issued to branches of the union throughout the country to have their strike organizations prepared. Should the transport workers in all parts of the country walk out, it is estimated 180,000 men will be involved.

By an agreement between the Board of Trade and the Jockey Club, all horse racing is to be suspended.

Announcement was made tonight of the suspension of the sailings of nearly all the passenger steamers between England and Ireland. Exception is made for vessels carrying the mails. The railroads began to restrict their passenger service.

It is reported tonight that in the Middlesborough iron district nearly 30,000 workmen have been rendered idle in the iron and interdependent industries.

Rioting similar to that which occurred at Tonypandy, South Wales, last night, was renewed there at midnight tonight. Windows were stoned and broken and four policemen were injured. The rioters were dispersed by a police baton charge. It is considered that the rioting is likely to strengthen the local demands in the South Wales town for the closing of the saloons.

Apart from the enginemen and pumpmen, who are keeping the coal mines in good condition, only one man of the 1,100,000 miners was working today. The man appeared as usual at the pit mouth, entered the mine and worked alone without any prospects of the fruits of his labor being brought up to the surface.

Owing to the rapidly fluctuating situation, no Government department is attempting to furnish statistics of the number of men unemployed directly because of the coal strike. The number, however, is growing daily.

HOSPITAL PROGRESS HALTED BY PROVINCE

Receipt of a copy of the grand jury's presentment regarding the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital by the City Council last night reminded aldermen that there has been no conspicuous progress made in the direction of reorganizing the hospital's finances and placing the institution on a more satisfactory economic basis.

Ald. Dewar asked if the Kiwanis Club committee had conferred with the Provincial Government, or if it had got satisfaction in any way.

Ald. Johns replied in the negative, as he would have been notified if any meetings had been called. Financial difficulties were the reason given for postponement of action.

"We can't do anything until the Government changes its mind," said Ald. Fullerton.

"There should be another method for financing hospitals,"[9] said the Mayor. "It is impossible to get up-to-date hospitals unless something is done."

The copy of the presentment was ordered received and filed.

ALD. TODD AGAIN FAILS TO CRIPPLE BY-LAW

Ald. A. E. Todd, smiling still after repeated defeats, tried again last night to knock out the Overhead Fixtures By-Law by opposing the penalty clause.

"I hope we'll kill it now," declared the alderman, when the measure was brought in for final passage. "Everything dies at the last moment, and it would be appropriate to give it a quietus tonight."

"Destroy the penalty clause, and you make the whole by-law ineffective," said Ald. Sargent, appealing to the Mayor.

"If you take my advice, this by-law will be like the holiday tomorrow. It will be without a penalty for non-observance," proceeded Ald. Todd.

"A good many people have already paid the tax and others are holding out because there is no penalty so far," said the Mayor.

The by-law was finally passed over Ald. Todd's opposition. It provides for a penalty of $10 for non-payment of taxes, the alternative being a maximum of thirty days' imprisonment.

Repeat "Minister's Bride" — The schoolroom at the First Presbyterian Church was well filled last evening for the "repeat" performance of "The Minister's Bride," which was given last week at the same place before a delighted audience. It was obvious from the amount of laughter that the production provoked that it fulfilled its object a second time, and the size of the audience on this occasion would lead to the assumption that the proceeds from the entertainment must be very satisfactory. The title role, that of "The Minister's Bride," was very charmingly portrayed by Mrs. Hoyle, Mr. Hoyle giving a very natural representation of "The Minister." Recitations and songs, piano solos and dialogues constitute the "Musical Evening" held at the Minister's home in the second act of the play, and the audience enjoyed them as much as the little gathering on the stage.

SALOON SUBSTITUTE IS BADLY REQUIRED

Rev. William Stevenson Tells Kiwanis Club Social Centres Must Be Provided—Makes Plea for Free Speech

The need of social centres to replace the saloon, particularly in the outposts of the Province was urged upon the Kiwanis Club at the weekly luncheon of that organization yesterday by Rev. William Stevenson who was the speaker of the occasion.

The minister has recently returned from a tour through northern British Columbia, and he saw during the trip the need of institutions where people might meet for social purposes and to discuss problems. The prohibitionists had realized that in fighting for the abolition of the saloon they were asking for the removal of social centres for which they knew no substitute. Churches were not filling the bill, declared the speaker. He referred to the ancient inns and the barber shops in the Old Country. The need of libraries was also pointed out by Mr. Stevenson who thought it a fearful thing that such a town as Prince Rupert should not have such an institution.

The speaker laid stress upon the need of more recreation among the people. "We have lost the art of amusing people. We're taking life too seriously," he declared. He thought it would be a good thing to have in the next government a Department of Humanity for the purpose of seeing to it that the people of the Province were properly amused.

A plea for the right of free speech was also made by Mr. Stevenson. "No man should be persecuted for saying what he thinks ought to be said," he declared. "You get nothing out of suppression."

Lieut. P. A. Rayner, local secretary of the Navy League, was present at the luncheon and gave a short talk on the aims of his organization, at the same time soliciting financial aid. He had with him the two officer cadets who will go to sea on the Victoria-built ship Canadian Winner.

Kiwanian Umbach presided at yesterday's meeting which was in the hands of the T's and the U's. Mr. Green provided two cornet solos while Miss Cody contributed two vocal selections. Kiwanian Newton was the winner of the attendance prize.

The fruits and vegetables will be donated to the Protestant Orphanage. A social will be held in the hall after the service.

TWO VANCOUVER MEN ARE THOUGHT LOST

VANCOUVER, Oct. 19.—Mr. L. Hendry, 3105 Carolina Street, and Mr. Ravenscroft, of West Vancouver, are believed to have lost their lives on October 16 by accidental drowning at Half-Moon Bay, north of Sechelt, according to a report made to the police by G. B. Hendry, president of the Hendry Foundry Company.

According to the story told by Mr. Hendry to the police, he, with his brother and Mr. Ravenscroft, had been making a motorboat tour along the coast and on October 16 reached Half-Moon Bay, when his brother and Mr. Ravenscroft put out in the dinghy to seek a safe anchorage for their launch. They were not seen again, and after a continued search the overturned dinghy was found on October 18.

COAST LEAGUE PROBE BUSILY AT WORK

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—The Los Angeles County Grand Jury today sent a telegram to H. W. Lane, owner of the Salt Lake City team of the Pacific Coast League, asking Mr. Lane to procure for it a deposition from William Rumbler, former member of Mr. Lane's team. The deposition was wanted, it was said, in connection with charges of corruption in the 1919 pennant race.

The district-attorney's office said that in addition to asking for a deposition from Rumler, the grand jury was seeking information from other players now in Salt Lake City.

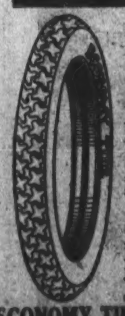

The grand jury turned its attention to other matters today and numerous players, managers and owners who are here attending the sessions, were directed to return tomorrow.

Duck Shooters Enjoy Some Exceptional Sport

Civil War Threatens Major League Baseball

DUCK SHOOTERS HAVE REMARKABLE SPORT

Rough Weather Drives Thousands Inland—Grain in the Fields Proves Tempting Feed —Bags Are Heavy

It's an ill-wind that blows no one any good! The old saw was exemplified in striking fashion during the week-end holidays just ended. Saturday was the opening day for pheasant and quail shooting; it was also the opening day for duck and snipe shooting. The rough weather which has been so prevalent during the grouse season so far, had disgusted a great many of the hunters, but this week-end those of them who went out certainly got even. If any did not, they must have been exceptionally unlucky or exceptionally unskilful. Normally the big event would have been the opening of the pheasant season, October 16 in a normal season being over-early for the best duck shooting hereabouts. Actually the facts were quite different. The pheasants suffered, no doubt; there were some good bags made; there were quite a large number of quail shot, but the really remarkable thing about the week-end's happenings among the hunters was that those of them who went after ducks enjoyed some of the most remarkable sport known here for years and years.

This was brought about by a combination of circumstances which might not happen again for a generation. The opening days of the duck season happened to be attended with exceptionally favorable duck weather and the veritable hurricane which blew drove them on to the Island in thousands. There they found an unusual state of affairs in the farmers' grain fields. The farmers' misfortune in having week after week of rainy weather just when they should have been seeing their grain ripen and harvesting it meant that the ducks found an unwonted supply of succulent feed, and they stayed with it.

Ducks and More Ducks

The finest kind of duck shooting is reported from all the well-known resorts from the Comox Valley down to Saanich and limit bags of ducks—mallards at that—were common. Even a few miles out of Victoria fine bags were made, and every duck hunter you meet and ask as to his luck is wearing a smile which will not come off. There were hunters who passed up shots at widgeon and teal in order to make a limit bag of al malards, and this in mid-October; and as for snipe, well, they just couldn't be bothered with such small fry, although they were as thick as ducks—almost.

Usually before the opening day we hear that everything is very plentiful, and just after it we are told that everything is scarce, but that didn't work this time. The duck-shooting really has been extraordinarily good. As for the pheasants, the army of gunners has probably already taught them caution, and they will be harder to bag from now on, and, as for the quail, they are as numerous as ever, and will afford fine shooting all through the season. But those ducks beating against that wind, well, they'll be talking about them for many a day to come. And not only the shooters will be talking. Island mallards have not always the best of reputations as a culinary delicacy, being over-fond of decaying dog salmon, which gives them a slightly fishy flavor, to put it mildly, but these are grain-fed birds, not yet spoiled by acquired bad habits in feeding, and they take some beating when dished up with all the trimmin's.

"Fine weather for ducks," they were saying, and, by Jupiter (Pluvius), they were certainly right!

YARROWS WILL RESUME SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Yarrows, Ltd., Amateur Athletic Association at a recent meeting of the executive, decided to again hold a series of entertainments during the Winter months. It will be remembered last year Yarrows, Ltd., conducted a number of these concerts and dances, which met with great success, and it is hoped that this season greater enthusiasm and co-operation will be taken in the association, to help the different branches of sport along. Mr. C. Pallister, who is in charge of social business, announces the concert and dance to be held in the K. of P. Hall, on Thursday, October 28, to be the biggest yet, and is looking for it large attendance.

FISHERMEN WANT PLENTY OF WIND FOR SCHOONER RACE

HALIFAX, Oct. 19—The suggestion was made here today by the promoters of this year's race between Nova Scotian and New England fishing schooners that the 1920 contest be a forerunner of a long-distance race next year between Halifax and New York or Boston. Such a race was urged as a fitting commemoration of the conclusion of the proposed American-Canadian fisheries treaty which for a century has been a bone of contention.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 19.—Two things are asked by Gloucester men from the committee in charge of the Canadian arrangements for the international fishermen's race. The local committee said today that they would prefer to decide the contest by the best two out of three races, and that they would ask also that there be plenty of wind.

They decided to ask the Navy Department to assign a destroyer to act as headquarters for the expedition to Halifax.

Prohibition neither prohibits nor improves. Beware of it.

HEN PHEASANTS ARE NOT LAWFUL GAME; DITTO FOR GEESE

The game regulations are fairly clear and well-printed copies have been pretty widely distributed and posted up in conspicuous places, and yet there are hunters who daily break the law with sublime unconsciousness of any wrongdoing. One hunter on the opening day of the pheasant season was met by another carrying five hen pheasants dangling round his shoulders. Luckily for him he had not yet run across the game warden. He was given a friendly warning and seemed mystified. "Well, these are pheasants, aren't they?" he asked. He was assured that they certainly were, and pheasants of that sex the killing of which would cost him probably some $25 per if the possession of them should lead him to an official interview with a magistrate. "Cocks only," the regulations say, and it really is not so very difficult to tell a cock pheasant from a hen except in the dark or when they are too young to shoot anyhow.

Then there was the man who naturally supposed that geese came in at the same time as ducks and was mighty proud of himself for having bagged a couple of fine big honkers until someone put him wise to the regulation, which says that you may shoot geese on November 13 and not before. They were mighty lucky hunters, these.

CIVIL WAR LOOMS IN MAJOR BASEBALL

Only Alternative Appears to Be Complete Reorganization—New Board to Supersede the National Commission

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Professional baseball today was confronted with two apparent alternatives—peaceful reorganization or civil war. There was the possibility of a twelve-club league on one hand, composed of eight National League clubs and three American League clubs, with the other five American League clubs in another cercuit. At least that was virtually an ultimatum presented to President Ban Johnson, of the American League, and owners of five clubs —Washington, Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia and St. Louis—none of whom was represented at yesterday's joint league meeting which proposed a plan for reorganization.

The plan approved by President Heydler, of the National League, and the clubs of that circuit, all represented at the meeting, with Chicago, New York and Boston, of the American League, was that as proposed recently by A. D. Lasker, a stockholder in the Chicago National League club.

It was agreed to organize a board of three members of nationally-known men not financially interested in baseball to supersede the national commission and the present national agreement would be abrogated. The chairman of the tribunal would receive a salary of $25,000 a year. The other two members would receive $10,000 each.

The five American League clubs not represented were given until November 1 to approve the new agreement, which would remain in force for 25 years. Unless they so agree, it was threatened at the meeting yesterday to form a new twelve-club league.

The new board would be elected by a majority vote of the clubs represented at a joint meeting to be held in Chicago November 9. The minor leagues will be invited to approve the agreement and recommendation that the clubowners formulated yesterday.

EBBETTS AND FRAZEE HEAP NO SAWEE

Tell Grand Jury They Know Nothing About Gambling—Former Says He's Had Enough Baseball

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—When the special grand jury investigating gambling in organised baseball resumed its investigation today, Chas. Ebbetts, owner of the Brooklyn Nationals, and Harry H. Frazee, president of the Boston Americans, were excused as witnesses. Both Ebbetts and Frazee told Hartley P. Replogle, assistant State's attorney that they had no information about gambling, but expressed their willingness to return later if they were wanted.

Mr. Ebbetts said he was impressed with the work of the grand jury and hoped it would be possible for it to recommend the adoption of the Lasker plan for reorganization of baseball.

Mr. Ebbetts, whose club won the National League championship this season, said that he wanted to retire from baseball and would do so, when he received his price, which he did not name, for his National League franchise and park.

"I have been in the game for 38 years," Mr. Ebbetts said, "and I think it is about time for me to quit. I am 61 years old now and want to retire."

CANADIAN SCOTTISH HOLD PRIZE SHOOT

Major Richardson Is Most Successful Marksman in A Class —T. N. Hibben Wins B Class Honors

A very successful prize shoot was held at the Clover Point ranges on Monday by the Canadian Scottish Rifle Association. The attendance was good and competition very keen throughout the matches.

In the "A" class Major F. Richardson won both the seven and ten-round aggregates with scores of 94 and 137, respectively. The Major has been shooting in top form all the year, being well up in the grand aggregate at Bisley and second in the aggregate at Ottawa. He has represented Canada at Bisley every year since 1909, 1914 to 1918 excepted, no competition taking place during the war, and won his place six times in previous years, making, it is believed, a record for any Canadian.

An interesting tie was shot off at 200 yards in the ten-round match for a silver cup. Sergt.-Major Wood and Mr. Kennedy both finished with 47, and in the shoot-off Mr. Kennedy won with four bulls to the Sergeant-Major's three bulls and a magpie.

In the "B" class Mr. T. N. Hibben won both aggregates and should give a good account of himself next year as an "A" class man. Captain H. Gillespie was second in "B" class, this being his first shoot since returning from overseas.

CLOSE PLAY IN QUOIT TOURNAMENT

The Quoit Club held one of the most interesting tournaments of the season at the Willows on Thanksgiving Day. The best players in the city were on the field and the rounds were closely contested. W. Woods reached the final and played well considering he has been away from the game for some weeks. J. Leiper was in great form and will be a hard man to beat when the British Columbia championship is played.

Jock McKenzie was not quite up to his usual form, but was in the prize list as usual. McCaig and McMillan were each defeated by one point, after an exciting game. T. Campbell showed up well and with a little more practice will make a formidable opponent. The winners of the day were: J. Leiper, 1st; W. Woods, 2nd; Jock McKenzie, 3rd; T. Hampbell, 4th. The winners of Saturday's contest were: J. McMillan, 1st; J. Leiper, 2nd.

BOUTS AT CALGARY ARE ADJUDGED DRAWS

CALGARY, Oct. 19.—Frank Barrieau, of Vancouver, and Dennis O'Keefe, of Chicago, fought 15 rounds to a draw here tonight, in one of the finest exhibitions ever staged here. While Barrieau had the best of the fight until the last round, O'Keefe earned his draw by staging a wonderful recovery in the fifteenth, when he hammered Barrieau's body and face with a rain of blows.

Referee Fred Lowes' decision was a popular one.

In the preliminaries Bert Hughes, of Vancouver, fought a draw for 10 rounds with "Young" Atalia, of Calgary, while George Ross, of Vancouver fought a six round draw with "Bill" Henry, of Chicago.

SOCCER MEN WANT TO FORM ALLIANCE

B.C.P.F.A. Urge D.F.A. to Join Hands With A.A.U. to Help Amateur Sport—Saturday's Games Arranged

Following are the soccer games arranged for Saturday at last night's meeting of the Victoria and District Football Association:

Senior League

Sons of England vs. Metropolis at Beacon Hill, lower ground, referee, Oliver.

G.W.V.A. vs. Comrades at Royal Athletic Park, referee, Lock; Wests vs. Yarrows at Central Park, referee, Pearson.

Intermediate League

All games start at 3 p.m. sharp.

The association upheld the action of Referee Jasper, who last Saturday awarded the intermediate game, which was to have been played between the Firemen and Esquimalt, to the former, owing to the late arrival of the latter team, but, with the consent of the Firemen it was arranged that the game should be replayed at a future date.

As only two teams have entered for the Wednesday league, it was decided that all arrangements for this league be cancelled. It was decided to rescind the motion passed last week rejecting the request to regrade J. Dale of the Garrison to intermediate standing, and that player and F. Buxton, also of the Garrison, were passed for playing from now on in the intermediate grade.

Secretary Archie Baker reported from the B.C.P.F.A. meeting held last week in Vancouver, which he attended as the delegate of the local body, to the effect that the B.C.P.F.A. will not allow the mixing of amateurs and professionals in soccer games, and that that body has accepted as its definition of an amateur exactly that of the A.A.U. of Canada. A committee was appointed, composed of Messrs. Russell and Morton of Vancouver, and Baker of Victoria, with a representative of the upper Island, to confer with the B.C. branch of the A.A.U. with a view to forming an alliance between the two bodies. The B.C.P.F.A. also request the D.F.A. to form an alliance with the A.A.U. for the good of amateur sport.

The delegates at last night's meeting also decided on the suggestion of Mr. F. R. Lock that the association should arrange for the double marking of the ground at important games in order to keep the spectators from encroaching on the field of play.

SUTIL IS WINNER OF MOTORBOAT RACE AT CADBORO BAY

Six cruising motorboats started in the Royal Victoria Yacht Club's race on Thanksgiving Day over a nine mile course in what was to be the last event of the club's season. The race was a handicap event with Mr. J. H. Rickaby's Edmarmo the scratch boat. The Edmarmo finished second making the course in one hour, 11 minutes, the best time for the course. The winning boat was the Sutil, owned by Mr. J. A. O'Neill Hayes and sailed by his sons, Harold and Donald, junior members of the club.

ATTACKS COUNCIL ABOUT BRIDGE LABOR

Mr. John Day Criticizes City's Attitude Regarding Employment of Local Residents and Veterans—Aldermen Reply

Recommendations of City Engineer F. M. Preston, as amended, concerning the conditions under which labor is to be employed in the construction of the Johnson Street Bridge were last night approved by the City Council.

The only contentious clause was that referring to the number of veterans to be employed and the proportion of local residents. The clause as finally passed reads as follows:

"The employees shall be residents of Victoria of at least four months' standing from September 1, 1920, excepting such labor which it is impossible to secure in the city of Victoria."

The Council had before it a letter from Mr. John Day, criticizing the Council's reported attitude regarding the question of bridge labor. Quoting from a Colonist report of a Streets Committee meeting, Mr. Day stated that Ald. Dinsdale had moved that the percentage of local men be cut down to forty per cent on the grounds that bridge-building was a job for specialists.

"Have you ever found time to visit the Harbor Marine, the Victoria Machinery Depot, the Cholberg Shipyard or Yarrows, Ltd.?" asked Mr. Day. "Go and take a look at the class of work on those two magnificent ships now lying in the harbor, built chiefly by men who fought for the Empire, numbers of whom are crippled. In the Cholberg yard, an old industry revived, sixty per cent returned men, forty per cent civilians, only local labor employed. I wish to inform you that the men (and there are more than you require laid off who are citizens who built those ships) can if you want it, build a bridge around the island, and that those statements are a slander upon the acknowledged abilities of these men and a reflection upon the good old city of Victoria. We have today, and I can prove this, men equal in abilities to any to be found in Canada, and I maintain you are breaking your trust as aldermen by allowing or suggesting any such clauses, especially under present conditions, which are so bad that many men are waiting for work, to allow sixty per cent of outsiders to take these jobs. If you set such an example, how can you expect the city to progress and blame others who do not consider the citizens? I trust that no such thing will be allowed. It is unfair and unjust."

May Be in Error

Ald. Fullerton thought that Mr. Day was in error in some of his contentions. He said that provision had been made for employment of as many Victorians as possible, except such as could not be secured here.

Ald. Dinsdale said that when he saw the provision for fifty per cent returned men he felt that insufficient allowance had been made for the specially skilled labor that would be needed from outside, and ten per cent would be little enough.

"You can't do anything with unskilled men," he went on. "I am told that the office staff and foremen are exempt from this. Ten per cent of Mr. Day's own family is in the Cholberg Shipyard, if that's what he means."

"Mr. Day evidently went out of his way to get after us," said Ald. Patrick. "He either misunderstood us or else he wasn't busy."

"He's always busy," remarked the Mayor.

The letter was received and filed, and the recommendations agreed to.

HARBOR MARINE SMOKER

Former Employees of Local Shipyard Hold Social Reunion in Army and Navy Rooms

The Harbor Marine Veterans' Association held a most enjoyable reunion in the form of a smoking concert last evening in the Army and Navy clubroom.

A splendid musical programme had been arranged for the entertainment of the members attending, and the various numbers were hugely appreciated. Perhaps the hit of the evening was the "Prohibition" song of Tom Obee's.

Much of the success of the evening was undoubtedly due to the generous financial support given by Mr. Spratt, the President of the Harbor Marine Co.

The following were the artists: Maj. L. Bullock-Webster, Mr. T. Obee, Mr. Dobbie, Sr.; Mr. Dobbie, Jr.; Mr. S. Dunsmuir, bagpipe selections; Mr. F. Moussett, Mr. C. Jackson, Mr. L. Brunnell; Mr. D. Wallace, piano solo; Mr. H. J. Young, Mr. A. E. Haines; Mr. Dan Wallace accompanied on the piano for all the singers.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES

PARIS HARLEQUINS APPEAR IN NOVEL ACT

Acrobats Imported Direct From Folies Bergere Feature Pantages Programme This Week —Other Novelties Effective

Every one of the five acts of vaudeville being presented this week at Pantages Theatre has a special appeal and fascination that makes the bill one of the most entertaining seen here in months.

The feature of the show is an unusual acrobatic novelty straight from the Folies Berger, Paris. Bobker's Six Harlequins, who offer a programme of eccentric gymnastics combined with fast tumbling, have long been famous on the European stage and Alexander Pantages was so impressed with their work that he arranged for them to come to this continent and take a place on his circuit. They have been creating a sensation wherever they have gone, their performance being so absolutely different from the usual run of gymnastic displays and so full of really remarkable tests of skill and power.

Classical and character dances form the basis for fifteen minutes of whirlwind stepping by the Dancers Supreme, Hamilton, Herman and Culver. Twogirls and a man, appear in a series of sensational dances, their repetoire including jazz, pantomime and Spanish tango. The stage settings are lavish and effective. The costumery is brilliant and tasteful.

Theatre goers who delight in hearing syncopated strains will enjoy that part of the bill devoted to Art Penny and his Seven Synco Knights. They are jazz specialists of the first water and know their business from base drum to plugged trombone. Art Penny sings a number of popular airs and another feature is a violin solo by one of the company.

The Wintergarden Four, a male quartette, appear in a group of song hits ranging from grand opera to rag time and they also carry a line of snappy comedy that invariably gets a big hand. Each member of the quartettee possesses a good voice and they give a genuine harmony treat.

Comedy and dance are combined in the offering of Lorenz & Wood. These comedians are about as well known as any in the business and their dialogue is original and witty. They offer some first class comedy piano playing and a brand new line of eccentric dancing.

"CHU CHIN CHOW" A GORGEOUS SHOW

Brilliant Pageant of Ancient Bagdad Will Hold Boards at the Royal Victoria for Five Nights and Two Matinees

"Chu Chin Chow," the gorgeous and beautifully staged musical extravaganza of the Orient, which ran an entire season in New York at the Century Theatre, will be presented by F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest at the Royal Victoria Theatre for five days beginning Tuesday evening, November 9th.

The coming of this brilliant pageant of ancient Bagdad, staged on a scale of superlative magnificence, will unquestionably rank as one of the most important events of many theatrical seasons. "Chu Chin Chow" is now in the fourth year of its amazing run at His Majesty's Theatre, London. It was produced there by Oscar Asche, the author, in association with the late Sir Herbert Tree, and has been presented continuously four years in spite of air raids, zeppelins, bombs, the war, and all other obstacles, holding at present the long-distance record for all London productions and for the entire world. Two years ago, Messrs. Comstock and Gest presented "Chu Chin Chow" in New York, with scenery and costumes made by the original producers in London. "Chu Chin Chow" proved a gorgeous revelation for American audiences and now the complete production and cast from the Century Theatre is being presented on tour, the biggest of traveling organizations, in 14 scenes and with a company of 300 people.

"Chu Chin Chow" is a romance of ancient Bagdad of a thousand years ago and tells the story of Abu Hasan, a robber chief, who disguises himself as Chu Chin Chow, a rich Chinese merchant, and enters Bagdad to rob Kasim Baba, the wealthy miser, and to raid the slave market. His plans are foiled by Zahrat, the desert woman, a slave who brings about his downfall, but not until 14 brilliant and wonderful scenes with music, dance and pageant, have been unfolded. The music, by Frederick Norton, is especially alluring and tuneful and there are 18 musical hits in the score. There are 365 dazzling and brilliant costumes of many colors and a mannequin parade of fashion models of ancient Bagdad that exhibits some of the most striking costumes ever designed.

"THE MOLLYCODDLE" SHOWS AT VARIETY

Douglas Fairbanks' Great Half-Million Dollar Film Will Be Attraction Again Today at Variety

Ghosts of the living dead!

Such is the reference made to a number of the characters appearing in the Douglas Fairbanks-United Artists' production, "The Mollycoddle," which will be shown at the Variety Theatre again today.

The "living dead" are members of the Hopi Indian tribe who are prominent in several episodes of the third Fairbanks' picture for the "Big Four," who since the filming of the scenes have passed on to the happy hunting grounds.

It was several weeks after the Fairbanks' company had visited the Hopi reservation, one hundred miles from Holbrook, Arizona, that it was learned that five of the Indians, two chiefs included, had succumbed. They had been very conspicuous in a sacred dance of the tribe, which through special arrangement was caught by the camera.

POLICE RAID IS FILM'S FEATURE

Polly Primrose's Gambling House in "Jenny Be Good" Is Incident Showing at Dominion Today

Crowds gathered on the side streets to watch one of the most spectacular raids ever pulled by the police. Like silent phantoms the officers of the law surrounded Polly Primrose's gambling resort and at a given signal forced their entrance into the house. Pandemonium reigned within as the officers coralled the habitues, making no distinction between rich and poor. Paraphernalia was smashed and carried out on the sidewalk. The clang of bells announced the arrival of the police-patrol and the wagons were soon packed with the frightened men and women and the gambling devices.

This spectacular scene is reproduced in detail in Mary Miles Minter's latest photodrama, "Jenny Be Good." This picture will be the principal attraction at the Dominion Theatres for the last time today.

"Jenny Be Good" was written by Wilbur Finley Fauley, well-known as a writer of stories. Julia Crawford Ivers adapted Mr. Fauley's novel for the screen and William Desmond Taylor directed it.

"THE MAPLE LEAFS" IN JOYOUS REVUE

"Camouflage" Is Musical Comedy Presented by Veterans on Their "Home-Coming Tour" at Royal Monday

"Camouflage" is the captivating title of the joyous musical comedy revue which the famous fourth division theatrical party, the "Maple Leafs," are offering on their home-coming tour of Canada.

Their offering has been elaborately staged by Capt. M. W. Plunkett, under whose personal direction they are now touring.

Lieut. Ben. Allen, the favorite black-face comedian, is the manager of the party.

Practically all of the favorites of the original party are with the show, including A. W. Wilkinson, Bobby Scott, Charlie Evans, Hughie Williamson, Ernie Petch, Sammy Birch and Art Sorenson.

Then they have Ashton and Benson, the "Ingenue" and the "vamp," from the "C 2's," and Jack Kelly, the "leading lady" (Kitty O'Hare) of the first division. Also Pexley, Farley, Walsh, Morrison, Graham and Morley Plunkett of the other divisional parties.

"Camouflage" will be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, October 25th and 26th.

SISTER NATALIE HELPS IN "LOVE EXPERT"

Youngest of Famous Trio Appears With Constance Talmadge in Presentation at Royal Victoria Today

Natalie Talmadge, the third and youngest of the famous Talmadge sisters, has an important part with Constance Talmadge in "The Love Expert," an original story by John Emerson and Anita Loos and the fifth of Constance Talmadge's First National pictures, which will be shown at the Royal Victoria Theatre again today.

Natalie made her debut on the screen some time ago with her sister Norma, playing a minor part, but this will be the first time she appears with her sister Constance in a role of prominence.

John Halliday plays the part of Jim Winthrop in support of Constance Talmadge and Natalie has the role of Dorcas Winthrop, his sister. The whimsical "love expert," portrayed by Constance Talmadge, makes things interesting for the Winthrops and others with her unique "experiments."

Scenes for "The Love Expert," are laid in New York, Boston and Palm Beach, where Constance and her entire company under the direction of David Kirkland spent the month of February.

MAPLE LEAFS BRING VICTORIA FAVORITE

Ernest Petch, Popular Victoria Baritone, Appears at Royal Victoria in "Camouflage"

When the Maple Leafs present "Camouflage" at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Monday and Tuesday of next week, an old Victoria favorite will be discovered on the stage in the person of Ernest Petch, son of Mr. A. Petch, of Davie Street, one of the foremost baritones ever appearing on the local amateur concert platform. The name of Mr. Petch was inadvertently omitted from the cast as given in Sunday's Colonist, but he was, in fact, the originator of the Fourth Divisional Concert Party in France, and some few months ago left for Toronto to join the company a second time when it was decided to maintain the identity of the Maple Leafs and tour the country.

Advance press notices are particularly flattering to Mr. Petch. "Ernie Petch," says The Winnipeg Telegram, "as the character man was equally good as the funny Jew and the dignified Frenchman. Whatever he does he does well, and his sketches stand out among the many excellent things on the bill." The veterans who remember the many performances of the Maple Leafs behind the lines in France, and there must be many such in Victoria, will not hesitate to endorse the excellence of Mr. Petch's efforts.

IS POLITICAL PLAY FOR ELECTION NIGHT

Clever Comedy Drama, "The Powers That Be," Showing at Princess Theatre Tonight, Has Timely Application

"The Powers That Be" will be presented tonight at the Princess Theatre and there is something particularly appealing in the idea of a political play for Election week. "The Powers That Be" is a comedy drama and while it deals with politics still it is not at all dry or preachy. There is a fund of clever comedy and bright breezy situations as well as heart interest and real punch, in fact there isn't a dull moment in the whole play. The entire cast are enjoying splendid parts and this "up to the minute" production will leave nothing to be desired for a perfect evening's entertainment.

The Election returns will be read from the stage between the acts of the play.

Miss Page and Mr. Aldenn both have loveable characters to portray in "The Powers That Be" and their many friends and admirers will be sure to feel that they have seen them at their best.

Remember tonight at the Princess "The Powers That Be" continuing the balance of the week with the usual Saturday matinee.

MAGNAVOX ATTRACTS GREAT ATTENTION

New Musical Instrument in Fletcher Brothers' Store Heard by Many People Yesterday

Hundreds of people were attracted to Fletcher Brothers' Music Store on Government street yesterday morning by sounds resembling a band, and investigation proved that they were by a Magnavox, an instrument that reproduces one hundred times the volume of the ordinary phonographic record. The Magnavox sounds are produced by dry cells, and proceed through a large horn, magnifying the human voice to such an extent that it was also demonstrated that it can be heard plainly from one end of the Arena at the Willows to the other. It has about the same volume as a string band, and is made by the Montagnes Company of Toronto, who are agents for the Sonora phonograph. This instrument is proving of great value to public speakers; Sir Auckland Geddes used it at the Toronto exposition when he addressed an audience of 20,000 people, and Senator Harding and Governor Cox are both making use of it in their election campaign. Premier Meighen is another public man who finds it to his advantage.

The great feature of it is its use as an announcer, as it reproduces the human voice in a wonderful manner.

AT THE STREET CORNER

By "The Lounger"

I suppose you remember that dear old riddle which came out of the Ark with Noah, having reference to the comparative qualities of a cow and a broken chair. The former gives milk and the latter gives way, and when you have given the answer you add a feeble smile and explain for the benefit of the uninitiated that the joke lies in the pun on the words "way" and "whey." I expect Mrs. Noah laughed very heartily, and I am quite sure that Ham, who would appear to have been possessed of a very quaint idea of humor, split his sides in his amusement. The riddle itself, however, though old enough to have been decently buried hundreds of years ago, survives to the present day, and so long as men and women will allow themselves to be made the victims of the modern collapsible chair it will doubtless continue to raise its head with distressing frequency.

* * *

By collapsible chairs, I mean the small, hard, uncomfortable contraptions which fold up for convenient packing. They make their appearance at all big meetings and banquets, and those people who do not have to sit in them are inclined to regard them with a favorable eye, because they are easy to transport, and can be stored away within a small compass. The unfortunates who are compelled to use them for seating purposes regard them with a very different eye, more particularly when they are in evidence at a banquet where the constant proposing of toasts makes it incumbent on the sitter to rise and reseat himself on many occasions throughout the proceedings. When you have once settled yourself fairly and squarely on the chair you are all right, but you must remember not to move about on your seat; any attempt to sit on the edge is fatal; it is also distinctly dangerous to make any attempt to rescue a fallen handkerchief or other article without first removing the chair to a respectful distance. When, as is usually the case, the chair itself is standing on a polished floor, the risks are increased one hundred-fold, with the result that the nervous strain imposed on the brain deadens the mental alertness of the victim, and he or she will be distinctly "distrait" throughout the evening. You will notice that the principal guests, the men and women who will be called upon to make speeches are never subjected to this strain; statistics have proved that the mentality of the orator is in direct proportion to the stability of his chair. You see, it is not the danger of receiving physical hurt by falling off the chair which is the cause of all this distress; it is the ridiculous position in which the unfortunate finds himself which makes him so nervous; to say nothing of all the horrid remarks which are passed upon the incident. An alcoholic builder may fall off a ladder and it will be regarded as an accident; but even a life-long teetotaller cannot fall off a collapsible chair and retain his previous reputation.

It is now my duty to adjust a very grievous error which I made in one of my paragraphs appearing in The Colonist of Sunday, October 10th. I made the definite statement that The B.C. Veterans' Weekly, published in Vancouver, was making its collections through a Seattle agency. I made this statement in good faith, relying on the evidence of a newsdealer who has been established in business here for more years than I have lived in Victoria, and who was quite confident of the accuracy of the information with which he supplied me. It now appears that he was misled, owing to the similarity in name between The B.C. Veterans' Weekly published in Vancouver, and The Veteran, published in the East. The Montreal branch of the American News Co., Ltd., formerly the Montreal News Co., Ltd., invoices a local dealer for copies of The Veteran, and a copy of the invoice is sent to the Puget Sound News Co., of Seattle, to whom the local dealer makes payments. The principle which I was attacking, viz., the payment for Canadian papers through an American firm, was right, but my particular application was wrong, and I sincerely trust that The B.C. Veterans' Weekly will accept this explanation and apology.

* * *

The above paragraph contains a very clear retraction. I now wish to speak of traction, in deference to the wishes of two gentlemen of the city, one of whom has written to me with reference to automobiles; the other having spoken to me about the Brockton Nephinim. I know that the Gilladites of old were condemned to be hewers of wood and drawers of water, but I may take it for granted that they had to draw the wood which they hewed, so perhaps the horses which are daily harnessed to loads of wood may be styled "Nephinim." My interlocutor complains that the single horse, usually in charge of a Hindu, is constantly being compelled to trot, when drawing a heavy load, whereas the animal should not be required to exceed a walking pace. It is easy to understand the resultant jar which a heavy load of this nature entails, and as the abuse is probably more the result of ignorance than of any need for haste, perhaps a little education in the matter might suffice to correct this malpractice. With reference to the automobiles, the complaint is that too few drivers observe the rule laid down for present use in this part of the Province, viz., that the drivers proceeding down a main road are bound to give the right of way to vehicles entering from side streets on the left. Streets and roads were quoted in the letter to which I refer, and I gather from the same that more than the average amount of caution is required from any person, whether driver or pedestrian, whether man, woman or child, before he enters on the main thoroughfare from a side street. By the same token, I have this very morning of writing been told of an exciting race between two cars, whose occupants have been friends or rivals, which took place on Fort Street last Monday evening; and immediately following them came a lady driving a big car on which all light was conspicuous by its absence!

* * *

In the same connection I am growing very nervous indeed; I understand that the rule that no car may be turned within the limits of a block is being enforced. Will, oh will, the next step be the elimination of "jay" walking? You know what "jay" walking is; it consists in taking the nearest way between two corners, without having to walk to the end of the pavement, and then turning at right angles. I am such a confirmed offender in this respect that I confidently expect to spend quite a large proportion of the next few years in jail if such a regulation be ever carried out in Victoria, as I shall never be able to pay the fines. "Jay" walking is an insidious pleasure; it gives the appearance of business haste with the least possible expenditure of trouble; it is an economy in time, energy and shoe-leather; it betokens a large-mindedness, an absence of that "cabined, cribbed and confined" state of mind which regards existence from the point of view of right angles. The obtuse man may be irritating in a way, but he is not half so trying to the nerves as the acute man who is always seeing some new angle on every subject; as for the right-angled man, well, he, of course, always considers that he is in the right, and consequently has few friends. Until Victoria grows into a more bustling metropolis than she is at present, I do trust that the pleasures of "jay" walking will still be left to

GIRLS' CONFERENCE BEGINS TOMORROW

Miss Olive Zeigler, Who Originated Idea of Canadian Girls in Training, Coming to Address Sessions Here

Miss Olive Zeigler, until recently Girls' Work Secretary under the Dominion Council, Y. W. C. A., will be in the city from Thursday, October 21, until Saturday of this week, and will give several addresses during the conference of Leaders and Teenage Girls which is being held in the Metropolitan Methodist Church this week. Miss Ziegler is one of those responsible for starting the idea of the Canadian Girls' In Training programme, which has attained nation-wide proportions in a few short years. She has remained with the movement right from the beginning, and those who are in close personal touch with her work declare that she stands second to none in Canada as regards leadership in Girls' work. The local co-operative committee on girls' work feel that they are singularly fortunate in being able to secure her as the chief speaker at the conference.

This conference, which is the second annual conference of the organization here, will open tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, when Sunday School teachers who have charge of the instruction of 'teen-age girls and other leaders of girls and of adults interested in girls' work will meet with Miss Zeigler for prayer and the discussion of plans. On Friday night the girl delegates will register at the Metropolitan Church between the hours of 6:45 and 8 o'clock, assembling at the latter hour to hear addresses by Rev. H. T. Archbold, of this city, and by Miss Zeigler and others.

Saturday will be a full day, with interesting sessions from 9:30 to 5 p. m. At 6 o'clock the big conference banquet will be held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, and all who pay the registration fee will be entitled to admission to this.

Sunday will see the closing of the conference with a mass meeting in the Metropolitan Methodist church at 3:15 p. m. Addresses will be given at this meeting by Mrs. H. E. Young and Dr. Sipprell. A cordial invitation is extended to all the 'teen-age girls of the city to attend all sessions of the conference.

PUBLIC HEALTH WORK FOR SPECIAL COURSE

Outline of Lectures to Commence at University of British Columbia Given by Miss Jessie Mackenzie

Further details of the proposed course of the University of British Columbia health nursing, a course planned to commence last year, but postponed owing to the urgent need of all nurses during the influenza epidemic has been brought back from Vancouver by Miss Jessie Mackenzie, Lady superintendent of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital, who in the capacity of president of the Nurses' Association occupied the chair at the meetings of that body held last Friday at New Westminster. Applicants for the course must register not later than November 10; all nurses in good standing graduated from some recognized training school connected with a hospital of not less than fifty beds and with a training course of not less than three years are eligible if they are also eligible for registration in British Columbia.

A perusal of the curriculum shows the breadth of work that is to be covered: Public health nursing, school hygiene, social problems, personal hygiene, mental hygiene, sanitation, etc., the idea of the course being to give helpful instruction to graduate nurses entering the public health work.

Six weeks of academic work followed by eight weeks of field work will constitute the course. Those who pass the examination to be held at the completion of the course will be given a certificate which will qualify them for positions in Public Health Nursing under the Provincial Board of Health, which is placing special emphasis at the present time on Public Health work. The field work will be taken up by small classes, working for two weeks in Saanich in connection with the Health Centre there.

The following shows the general outlines of the course, together with the lecturers for the respective subjects:

Twelve lectures on each of the following:

Public Health Nursing—No appointment made.

School Hygiene—Dr. Whiteman.

Communicable Diseases—Dr. Mullin.

Modern Social Problems—Dr. F. H. Bourne.

NEW HOME WILL BE BUILT OF CONCRETE

Mr. J. Sommer Is Erecting House on Wellington Avenue—New System of Construction

Mr. J. Sommer, the well-known picture dealer, of Government Street, is having a new home built on an entirely new principle known as the Sawyer system. This consists of a building of concrete, with Victoria self-locking hollow concrete walls. The house, which will be of two stories and eight rooms, is to be erected at a cost of about $5,000, and it is situated on Wellington Avenue, between Faithful Avenue and Dallas Road.

The Concrete Wall Company, of which Mr. G. H. Meredith is the head, has offices at 301 and 302 Belmont House, and their system has been endorsed by the Portland Cement Association. It is claimed that the new style of building only takes one-third of the time that it does to put up a wooden structure, and it is said to be cheaper. With regard to brick buildings, the concrete style is said to be 50 per cent quicker, and it saves 40 per cent of the cost.

The new firm is named the Victoria Self-Locking Concrete Wall Company, Limited, and it is assured that in recent years concrete has assumed a position of supreme importance as a structural agent, and is now regarded as one of the greatest building factors of this age of marvellous progress.

SAYS OLD MEN HERE EAT TOO MUCH MEAT

Medical Health Officer Urges Council to Revise Requisitions for Home—Excess of Sugar in Dietary, Too

Aldermen who were inclined to wonder at the belligerent conduct of certain inmates of the Old Men's Home a few weeks ago, when a free-for-all arising out of a pinochle game resulted in sending one man to hospital and another into the street, thought they had found the solution last night when Medical Health Officer Arthur G. Price reported that altogether too much meat is being served at the home.

"I have cut down the monthly meat supply by 702 pounds," reported Dr. Price. "The amount on the requisitions show an average of 1,091 pounds a month for June and July, an amount which I consider is far in excess of what is good for forty-one old men to consume. The amount saved by curtailing the amount of meat by 702 pounds per month would amount to $175 at 25c per pound."

Dr. Price also told the Council that the inmates of the home were getting an excess of sugar, too. "I advocate the use of considerably less tea and coffee," he continued. "The amount of sugar (462 pounds per month) being used is far in excess of the amount necessary or healthful for forty-one men. My estimate of 164 pounds may be low, but it is sufficient, however, to be consistent with health, but does not permit of luxury."

Dr. Price made his report at the request of the Finance Committee in an effort to determine whether the latest figures are out of proportion with previous ones. Dr. Price said that his previous report was misconstrued in several instances. It was based on the dietary suitable for the inmates of the home solely from a health point of view without any reference to costs, he pointed out.

More Bread Suggested

"I have recommended the use of more bread, as I consider it to be one of the most important items in a dietary," wrote Dr. Price. "I have also advocated an increase in the quantity of eggs to be used, both on account of their food value and knowing that they can be produced on the premises by two dozen hens fed upon scraps from the kitchen and garden."

Dr. Price recommends less milk in future, less butter, bacon and ham, fish, peas, beans, potatoes, rice and cheese and more oatmeal, jam and sago.

"No one wants to stint the old men. We all wish for their health and happiness," said Ald. Johns, chairman of the Health Committee. "But sometimes, not knowing much about it ourselves, we give them too much of what is not good for them."

Ald. Dewar said that this was the first time any objection had been raised. The requisitions had been signed month after month without protest.

"Twenty-five pounds of meat a month is much more than a working man needs," commented Ald. Patrick.

"It is nothing compared with the amount of medicine that goes up there," remarked Mayor Porter.

In future all supplies will be approved by Dr. Price.

NAVY LEAGUE WORK BEGINS AT SOOKE

Concert and Dance, Followed by Enrolment of Boys in New Subdivision

The Victoria Branch of the Navy League, in pursuance of the policy recently decided upon to extend their operations actively throughout their large rural district, made a commencement at Sooke Harbor on Friday, October 15th.

A very successful concert and dance was held at the hall, at which a large number of people were present. Mr. H. T. Ravenhill was in the chair, and after a short address on the aims of the Navy League, asked Paymaster Lieut. Rayner to speak on the training given the boys in the Boys' Naval Brigade. He emphasized the fact that the training given is for the Merchant Service, and great interest was aroused.

The Women's Institute is firmly behind the movement, and voted that Mr. W. Miller Higgs be appointed officer commanding the Sooke sub-division of the Boys' Naval Brigade.

Mr. Pickering very delightfully entertained with some of his humorous songs, and Mr. Rumsby played a violin solo. Dancing was kept up to the strains of Mr. Rumsby's three-piece orchestra until 12 o'clock midnight, when C. P. O. Owens, 14-year-old boy of the Victoria Boys' Naval Brigade, called for a vote of thanks and three cheers for the ladies for all the trouble they had taken with the supper and other arrangements. The audience was then called upon to sing "God Save the King" before they went home.

On Saturday Lieut. Rayner and C. P. O. Owens enrolled nine boys as members of the Sooke sub-division of the Boys' Naval Brigade, and at 2:30 p.m. they received their first instruction from C. P. O. Owens in the routine work of the brigade. A large number of residents turned out to watch this interesting programme.

The Victoria branch of the Navy League is to pursue the same policy in other parts of its district.

Seek Higher Wages.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 19.—An increase of $1 per day in wages is being sought by the bricklayers and masons of the city, according to a letter received by J. Hart, secretary of the Manufacturers' Association of British Columbia, from the Bricklayers' and masons' union. The present rate of wages is $9 per day, and the union is asking that this be increased to $10 per day as from January 16, 1921. The matter will be considered at a meeting of the master builders and contractors' association on Thursday evening.

Looking at the suit that you ought to buy—and buying the suit you ought to have looked at

That happens to a lot of men. Don't let it happen to you this fall.

Here's what they do.

They go into a good store and ask for a good suit of clothes and try it on. So far, so good. That's the only way to get good clothes.

Then they go somewhere else and try on a suit a little lower in price. That old dollar gets in front of their eyes and after that they can't see anything but price. Pretty soon they aren't looking at anything but price marks. The suit they finally buy is one they literally haven't looked at.

No man ever looked his best in a suit of clothes that he bought because it was a few dollars cheaper than the one he wanted.

that the evil must be hereditary. True, other doctors disagree, and there are many more of this latter class than of the former, but what do the Prohibitionists care? They are not out for fairplay or Christianity, but to get Prohibition adopted. Dr. Ernest Hall has repeatedly stated that drink causes mental defectiveness, and this claim is seen in a poster at the entrance of a church. Some time ago, in The Times, I contradicted that, merely from my own observations and discussions with people in my travels, but I could not produce authority, as not expecting such a campaign (this was before I even thought of coming to Canada) I did not keep any. The other night, as a result of a letter in The Times, by E. M. Brown, calling attention to certain statements in The Literary Digest, I looked up some old copies, and by accident came across the following, which I think will be instructive in the present campaign. The subject is "Alcohol and Crime," and this is what re read.

"Of 2,500 prisoners in the Indiana State prison, 2,075 drink to excess, and only 175 are abstainers." I can imagine Prohibitionists chuckling over this, 'there, that proves it, Dr. Ernest Hall is right.' Quite so, this is the way the Prohibitionists are conducting their campaign. But let us see what the context say: "This is one of the results of a survey made in the psychological laboratory of the prison, by Dr. Paul E. Bowers. Dr. Bowers is not so sure, as some of our readers may be, that his figures prove that alcohol drove these two thousand to commit crime. Criminals, he says, are almost always neurasthenic, and this condition also creates the alcoholic thirst. Possibly denial of alcohol, while it would have made them sober, would not have affected their criminal propensities. Large numbers of prisoners are dipsomaniacs; they possess neuropathic organizations; to them drinking is an expression of their defect, a contributing factor, to their crime rather than the immediate one. Prison authorities, and especially prison surgeons, know that many prisoners, in order to excuse overt acts, readily attribute their crimes to temporary state of drunkenness. Therefore, statistics on alcoholism from penal institutions and reformers are to be taken 'cum grano salis,' for they are more or less inaccurate. . . . The best statistics show that from 70 per cent to 80 per cent of persons who drink spirits convulsively, and are called inebriates, have a defective hereditary."

Now we have Dr. Crothers, America's leading authority on alcoholism, who says: "It is a delusion to interpret acts associated with premeditation and reasoning in inebriates as evidences of sanity. It is a delusion to consider such persons as possessing free will and judgment with consciousness of their condition and ability to control. It is a delusion often repeated, and has been incorporated in jurisprudence, that alcohol may be used to give capacity to commit crime. In reality this is true, but in a very narrow limit. The fact is sustained by unmistakable evidence that all crimes committed by such persons are the acts of defective minds. Criminals of this class need control, care, and changed conditions. Society in general and law in particular, still look upon an individual as a possessor of an absolutely free will. Can we look upon intemperance as prima-facie evidence of deliberate viciousness. This is hardly possible in the light of recent research. It has been demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt that the dipsomaniac is always a neurotic. His nervous system is impaired by hereditary, disease, or trauma. The defects of his brain and central nervous system produce, at intervals, an insatiable, uncontrollable, craving for alcoholic stimulants."

It is admitted that mental defectiveness is hereditary, and as according to Dr. Crothers, America's leading authority on alcoholism, this defectiveness creates an insatiable and uncontrollable desire for alcoholic stimulants, we have the explanation of drunkenness in parents and children. This, however, is the result or effect of the disease and not the cause, of it. As this class represents 70 to 80 per cent of the total drunkards, according to Dr. Bowers, will prohibition cure them? The craving for alcoholic stimulants is, according to these authorities, uncontrollable, what do we know of their sufferings? Is gaol the right place for them? Should they not rather be sent to a hospital for nervous diseases? Is this not a more humane manner of treating them. How many of them have died from drinking poisoned dope, when the uncontrollable craving is on, and they cannot get decent liquor because a set of fanatics prevent them from having it, under Prohibition laws. Are they not rather more to be pitied than condemned? Yet Prohibitionists appeal to women on alleged humanitarian grounds, and women are told that Prohibition will do away with drunkenness. If we vote Prohibition shall we not be responsible for the deaths of these men, who suffer from a disease regarding which we do not care to enquire into, and we look upon them as vicious rather than ill.

Is this not man's inhumanity to man?

Coming now to a little Prohibition argument. Will Prohibitionists note that the division of the criminals in the Indiana State prison is between those who drink to excess and total abstainers. Apparently there were no moderate drinkers amongst them.

In one of Dr. Ernest Hall's letter he appealed to our charity, and other Prohibitionists ask us to be unselfish. When a man appeals to me for charity, and I give him some money that is mine, to help him; that is charity, but I am giving him what is my own, and the transaction ends there. In appealing to us to be charitable in our votes, it is a different thing. For when we vote for Prohibition we are not only giving what is ours, but we are depriving someone else of something which is theirs. We might as well vote that all the savings of everyone shall be confiscated, simply because we are asked to give $1 in our charity. Have we a right to do this? Have we a right to use our votes to deprive by the force of the law, someone else of something which is his. What do we know about our neighbor's needs, whether depriving him might not mean his life and death? Have we this right to exercise our franchise, I ask? Citizens, I ask you to think over it. I say no, we have no such right. I might willingly give up my own habit, such as it is, but I have no right to say to another man what his habits shall be, much less use force to compel him to comply with my own ideas. I again appeal for a little of the spirit of Christ. I appeal for sympathy, and tolerance, for hospitals to cure these unfortunates whose drunkenness is the result of a nerve disease, and of the remaining twenty per cent (of total number of drunkards) education will take care of it. Let the Government sell the liquor, so as to ensure control and purity, and then rational treatment of the unfortunate drunkards seems to me to be the correct way to cure this evil, which Prohibition can never cure.

The above statements would seem to absolutely disprove one of the posters in one of the churches in Quadra Street. It is not alcoholism which causes mental defectiveness, but it is the disease inherent in mental defectives, which is hereditary, which causes the insatiable, uncontrollable, craving for liquor which makes the drunkards. If we put the total drunkards at one in one thousand, then as 70 per cent of these are mental defectives, we have only 1 in 5,000 of drunkards. Is Prohibition the right way to treat these? I say no, because the percentage total population is too small, and the measure involves the fundimentals of our ideals.

Plebiscite Day

Hail to the day that may bring liberty
If folks will do their duty at the poll
And weigh the issue with sincerity
And not let selfish motive play their role.

Ye mothers, who your bairns would fain protect,
Think ye that God did place in Eden fair
Forbidden fruit to tempt, or to effect
The building up of sounder character?

How deadly dull would be this good, old earth
If all temptations were removed by law.
How characterless, how devoid of mirth
Would be the folk—how pitiably raw!

No law can stop the sale and use of drink,
And those that try make criminals of men:
Yea, honest men, and push them o'er the brink
Into a pit, never to rise again.

A miracle of blessed love divine
Once turned the purest water into wine.
And yet a lot of stupid, puny men
Would turn that blessed fluid back again.

Re Prohibition

Sir,—All arguments for or against Prohibition have their ultimate basis on one of two grounds only, namely, expediency or morality. Under expediency fall all comparisons or expectations of financial loss or profit from taxes, licences, commissions on sales, changes in cost of administration of prisons, hospitals, asylums, etc. It is possible, of course, indefinitely to extend this list, but unnecessary.

Now, to base policy upon expediency, where principles of right and wrong are involved is unworthy of an individual, and of the community, and it is the duty of everyone voting on the referendum to cast their vote in the manner to do the greatest good, in the broadest sense, to the community in general. It is therefore on moral considerations alone that judgment should be given, and it is with this side of the question that I wish particularly to deal.

First of all, no people can be made moral by injunctions, laws, or prohibitions of any sort at all. Action or inaction can be compelled by all of these, but such action or inaction can never be moral or immoral. Morality only exists because immorality lives in fact or potentially by its side, and gives us a basis of contrasting right with wrong. Were it impossible to do otherwise than right, there were no virtue in it whatsoever, and right doing would no more be moral than are the acts of fish in water or birds in the air.

Strong drink is one of the blessings which the Deity has given man for his use since the earliest days, and it satisfies a physical need such as nothing else at times can. When abused it undisputedly causes suffering to many. But, what is there which when abused, does not cause suffering? Man is only moral or otherwise in that, having the power to choose either, he voluntarily selects the right or wrong. Because some abuse the gifts to man is no reason for prohibiting their use, and to pretend that the coming youth will grow up better because of prohibition borders on the ridiculous. If our children do not have the moral strength to be temperate when the opportunity to over indulge is available it is because they have not been influenced spiritually in their contact with us to produce in them characters of strength with a true vision of right and wrong, and if we fail to give them that then the mere absence of liquor will no more help them morally than would the absence of collar studs and hairpins, and being unable to obtain drink would in no wise strengthen their perceptions of right and wrong, of prevent the weakness of their characters leading them astray in other directions.

If even every path to the wrong were blocked a purely non-moral creature is produced little better than an animal.

Because the abuse of strong drink is the cause of much suffering the fact of that abuse is no moral justification for Prohibition. If this principle is once admitted as sound, one has but to look at other abuses causing far more suffering and injustice to see where the same reasoning leads.

For example: It cannot be disputed that immoral lust is an infinitely more terrible cause of misery and injustice, and applying the same principle to effect a reform condemns the human race to extinction.

No, sir, the ideal of all should be so to raise, strengthen and develop the character of our race that we may fully enjoy and rejoice in the gifts God has given us, and be able always to avoid misuse. Prohibition can only be a retrogressive step leading to lower rather than to higher standards.

Think First, Vote Afterwards

Sir,—On the eve of the poll, allow me to extend to you my humble appreciation for the manner in which you have given both sides the freedom in your columns to express their views, I would exhort every voter on Wednesday to cast aside all acrimony, think first, then vote afterwards, again thanking you, I am,

A Correction

Sir,—The report of my remarks at the Knights of Columbus banquet caused me a little surprise. I find that it is only partly correct. What I did say about the convention of the Knights in New York is that the Canadian members were not asked to vote on the resolution regarding Ireland.

Veterans' Viewpoint

Sir,—I appeal to the citizens on behalf of the boys who fought in the trenches, while a certain element, lounging back in their swivel chairs, enjoying solid comfort before a bright fire, advocated that the rum issue should cease.

Don't hesitate which way to vote when you know that over ninety per cent of these brave lads have declared themselves as opposed to this pussyfoot element, and their platform. Put your trust in the veterans, and have no fear of the results. Government Control and British Liberty is the veterans' war cry.

The Prohibition Issue

Sir,—I submit a little further pabulum for Ernest A. Hall.

A lady in Vancouver told me that a friend of hers was killed through Prohibition.

This friend was ordered to take stout by her doctor.

When Prohibition came in, it became difficult to get it. After a while no supply was obtainable. Shortly after that she died.

My informant says: "Prohibition killed my friend. I and all my lady friends are going to vote for Government Control."

The name and address of my informant will be furnished to Ernest A. Hall if he desires to test the truth of my statement.

The Medical Opinion

Sir:—Prohibitionists claim that the use of alcohol in the treatment of disease is almost universally condemned by the medical profession.

The experience of British Columbia, since the passage of the present prohibition act, certainly does not appear to support their contention, as witness the prodigious pile of prescriptions for alcoholic liquors issued by the province's medical fraternity within recent years. It is unthinkable that to a matter such as this the majority of medical opinion in British Columbia should run in direct opposition to that of the rest of the world. Doctors are not, as a rule, given to prescribing beverages for their patients. That does not lie within the province of their profession. It is reasonable to assume, and in justice to the members of the profession, only right to assert, that prescriptions are issued only after careful diagnoses. Therefore, that so many of our suffering brothers and sisters have had alcohol prescribed for their multifarious ailments by local physicians is sure a certain proof that the latter as a whole approve of its employment. Indeed, it would seem as if "Liquor Fermenti" as a curative and restorative agent stands very high in the estimation of our provincial medicos —much higher than many of our prohibitionist friends might care to believe.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

It is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, and the full formula is on the package. When you see how wonderfully it acts you will in the future avoid drastic calomel and castor oil even if disguised in sugar-coated pills. A sixty-cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin lasts months.

If you would like to test Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin free of charge before buying it in the regular way of your druggist, send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 19 Front St., Bridgburg, Ont., and a free trial bottle will be sent you promptly, postpaid.

Canada's Sons of the Sea

Britain, the Greatest Maritime Power, Supports Her Mercantile Training Ships Wholly by Voluntary Public Contributions, Because it is Realized that the Sailor is a National Asset.

It takes six times as long to train a seaman as it does to build a ship.

Maritime strength cannot be achieved in a year or even a decade. Its growth can only be commensurate with the development of sea-conscious spirit in the nation.

The continuous training of over two thousand Canadian lads, in the Boys' Naval Brigades of the Navy League of Canada, is to-day having an effect upon our maritime future.

Only through this medium can the foundation be laid of trained Canadian seamen for our ships.

Since May last, sixty of these lads have completed their training and passed into the Canadian Merchant Navy. Fifty more are on the new ships of the re-organised Royal Canadian Navy.

Under the guidance of Experienced Sea Minds, it is being planned to give chosen lads from the Boys' Naval Brigades an ocean-going education second to none, so that Canada will have efficient master seamen.

The Merchant Navy of any nation is its first step to sea power.

Public opinion demands that this work be maintained.
From the public, then, must come the funds.

LECTURE GIVEN AT HIGH SCHOOL

Mr. C. H. French Tells of Great Northland Through Word and Picture

The first of a series of meetings which will be held at the Victoria High School under the auspices of the Students' Welfare League this Winter for educational and entertaining purposes took place last night. Mr. C. H. French, of the Hudson's Bay Company, delivered an entertaining and instructive illustrated lecture on the great Northland. He showed upon the screen some excellent pictures of life on the shores of the Bering Sea. Miss B. Campbell and Miss G. Switzer sang two duets during the evening. In seconding the vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening, Principal Robinson asked Mr. French to repeat his lecture in the High School in two months' time.

At future meetings by the Students' Welfare League in the High School, it is planned to have a Cabinet Minister and Mrs. Pankhurst speak.

Mr. A. E. Hall, Provincial president of the league, addressed several meetings up the Island within the last few days. He and Mr. H. B. McDonald, the representative of the local branch of the league, spoke at Ladysmith on Saturday afternoon and at Nanaimo on Saturday night, branches being formed in both towns.

Arrested at Calgary

CALGARY, Oct. 19.—Dick Barrett, alias Harrison Barr, was arrested here on Saturday by Sheriff Hyers, of Nebraska, and Detective Carruthers of the city force, as an escaped convict from the state penitentiary of Nebraska, from where he has been missing since last May. Barrett has been living quietly here since last July as an employee of a local garage. He had been serving terms for automobile thefts.

RHEUMATIC PEOPLE

Can Only Find Relief by Enriching the Blood.

Rheumatism is a disorder of the blood. It attacks people when the blood is overcharged with acid and impurities, thus setting up inflammation in the muscles and joints. Wet weather or cold weather may start the tortures of rheumatism, but is not the cause. The cause is in the blood and the blood only. Victims of this malady have every reason to fear the first dull ache in the limbs and joints, followed by sharp pains through the flesh and muscles; these are the symptoms of poison in the blood, which will shortly leave the victim patsecked and helpless.

There is only one way to cure rheumatism, and that is through the blood. Liniments, hot applications, and rubbing may give temporary ease, but cannot possibly root the trouble out of the system. That can only be done by the rich, red blood which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills makes. This new blood drives out the poisonous acids and impurities, and the rheumatism disappears. If you are a sufferer from this painful malady begin the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and see how soon the pains and stiffness of the joints fade away, leaving behind new energy and new health.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. (Advt.)

Golden Harvests

Why speculate with hazardous hopes?

Few people realize fully the handsome returns which some of the most unquestionable securities actually bring. This applies not only to those who are just beginning to save, or are just forming investment habits, but, indeed, to many who have been investing for years.
For instance, if an investor were to purchase a $1,000 Victory Bond due 1934 on, say, November 5th, the cost and return would be:

COST		RETURN
At 93 and interest:		28 half-yearly interest payments of
For principal	$930.00	$27.50 each	$ 770.00
For accrued interest	.60	and at maturity	1,000.00
Total	$930.60	Total	$1,770.00

If the interest payments were not spent, but were re-invested promptly in securities yielding 5½%, the total return would be still further increased to $2,137.43.

A $100 Bond costing	$ 93.06	A $50 Bond costing	$46.53
would return	177.00	would return	88.50

$10,000 worth of Bonds, costing $9,306.00, would return $17,700, or, if re-invested, $21,374.30; and other amounts in proportion. This is the kind of golden harvest which the safest security in Canada will give you. Whether the amount is large or small the same proportion holds. Plant your dollars now in Victory Bonds and your harvest will be sure.

Bonds may be bought in $50, $100, $500 or $1,000 denominations.

STOCK PRICES SHOW RELATIVE FIRMNESS

Miscellaneous Issues Respond to More Confident Feeling—Success of Bond Flotations Gives Some Encouragement

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The stock market was on a more stable basis today, although the drift of prices during the early period continued to reflect economic readjustments at home and abroad.

Labor unsettlement in England, arising from the coal strike and demonstrations of the unemployed, caused further weakness in foreign exchange, with the rate for British demand bills falling almost to $3.40 to the pound sterling.

Encouragement was found in the investment situation, however, several new domestic and foreign flotations being oversubscribed. It was also announced that a $20,000,000 loan to Denmark is soon to be consummated.

Withdrawal through the local Federal Reserve Bank of some $30,000,000 for treasury funds had no visible effect on the money market. Call money was plentiful at 7 per cent, and even 6 per cent, before the close.

Oils, shippings, tractions and sugars furnished much of the day's limited momentum. Utilities were bought on a favorable legal decision in Philadelphia relating to higher fares, while sugars were responsive to measures now under way to relieve acute conditions in Cuba. The few noteworthy gains at the firm close included United Fruit, Mexican Petroleum, Nickel Plate, Reading and Retail Stores.

Sales amounted to 355,000 shares.

Bonds were active and irregular during the early trading, Liberty issues yielding with the prominent rails and industrials. Total sales, par value, $13,200,000. Old U. S. bonds unchanged on call.

THE EXCHANGE RATE

I.—What Controls It?

FIFTY-SIX years ago, after the Civil War, the United States dollar was quoted in Toronto at forty cents. To-day that dollar is quoted here at one hundred and ten cents, or more, while the Canadian dollar has an exchange value of only about ninety cents in the United States.

On every side the questions are asked, "What is the meaning of 'Exchange'?" "Why is our money at a discount?" and "When will the Canadian dollar again be worth its face value?"

Many false impressions are held as to the cause of these fluctuations.

In the following series of advertisements, which will be published in this paper each week, we shall try to make clear the factors controlling the rise and fall in value of the dollar.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE
Capital Paid Up $15,000,000. Reserve Fund $15,000,000.
This series, when completed, will be published in pamphlet form. If you desire a copy, write to our Head Office, Toronto.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKETS

WINNIPEG, Oct. 19.—With a fluctuation of 4⅛ to 6⅛ cents on the three contract months, the local wheat market today was nervous and erratic. The market was active during the early part of the session, and considerable wheat changed hands, with evidence that exporters were buying. The cash wheat market was active, with premiums ¼c to ½c better. American millers were good buyers. Coarse cash grains were in fair demand. Future grain market was weak, showing declines of from ⅜ cent to 7 cents.

October wheat closed 1⅝ cent lower, November 4⅝ cents lower and December 6⅝ cents lower. Oats ⅜ cent lower for October, 1 cent lower for December and 1¼ cent lower for May. Barley 2 cents down for October, November 7 cents lower, December 3 cents down and May 2 cents lower. Flax closed 6 cents lower for October, November 5 cents lower and December 5⅝ cents lower. Rye 2¼ cents down for October.

BOARD IS OPPOSED TO FIXING PRICES

Businessmen Protest Against Proposal to Fix Arbitrary Quotation on Sugar for Sale in Canada

The Privy Council, meeting in Ottawa to review the sugar situation, will be informed today that the Victoria Board of Trade is opposed to the principle of price-fixing as applied to any commodity, and that it protests against the proposal of the Board of Commerce to maintain an artificial quotation on sugar to protect the refineries.

Vice-President James H. Beatty, who introduced the question, submitted the following motion to the council of the Board of Trade yesterday morning:

"Resolved that the council of the Board of Trade telegraph to the Privy Council at Ottawa a strong protest against the order of the Board of Commerce arbitrarily fixing the cost of sugar to manufacturers and consumers above open market prices, and

"That in view of the protection which manufacturers and consumers have hithertofore derived from controlled prices, the Government of Canada shall compensate the sugar refiners for actual losses on present stock, but not including extraordinary future commitments of raw sugar, such compensation to be arrived at after reviewing war period profits and depreciated value of existing stocks, and

"Further, that the control of prices is certain to lead to difficulties, and that it should no longer be continued in any form."

Mr. Beatty stated that Canada had far cheaper sugar during the height of the shortage than was available in the United States. He understood that Canadian refineries, in order to keep the country properly supplied, had contracted for raws at tremendous prices.

Mr. A. E. Maclean said that yesterday morning's quotations were one dollar lower than those prevailing at the close of business on Saturday.

Mr. George I. Warren moved that the resolution be adopted with the second clause, referring to compensation, deleted. Mr. Joshua Kingham favored confining the resolution to the first paragraph. Mr. Warren's suggestion was adopted.

Separate resolutions submitted by the retail section, condemning the Board of Commerce for its price-fixing proposal, and petitioning the Government to disband the board on the grounds that it has now fulfilled its usefulness, were also passed.

DORA SIEWARD TO SERVE AS BARGE

Sealing Schooner Sold to Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Ruscoe, Who Operate the Tugboat Nora Alone

The old sealing schooner Dora Sieward has been sold by her owner, Mr. A. J. Bechtel, and will serve in future as a barge. Her purchasers are Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Ruscoe, who together operate the tugboat Nora, Mrs. Ruscoe, better known as "Mickey," being the fireman and engineer, and Mr. Roscoe acting as skipper.

The Ruscoes are having portions of the hull of the old schooner renewed above the waterline while the inside will be prepared for barge purposes. Mr. Ruscoe stated yesterday that he will probably fit the barge with derricks for handling cargo. The boat is at present lying in front of the old Point Ellice Yard of the Foundation Company.

The Dora Sieward was one of the last sealing schooners brought here from the Atlantic Coast. She was operated for some time in the sealing industry and was forced to tie up along with the remainder of the fleet ten years ago. She has been lying in the harbor, with only a stump of a mast remaining on deck.

The Ruscoe for a couple of years operated the small steam launch Elwood in the towing business, also using the boat as their residence. "Mickey" acted as fireman and engineer while the male member of the Company was commander-in-chief. Some time ago they rebuilt the housework on the tug Nora, which they owned but had never operated, and this boat has been in the towing business ever since. The couple operate the larger craft alone, and the engineroom and stokehold staff declares that she finds no difficulty in doing all the work in her department. The Elwood is still a unit of the Ruscoe fleet but is used little now that the larger tug is in operation.

TO COMMAND FIRST LOCAL BARKENTINE

Capt. J. C. Stewart Chosen for S. F. Tolmie, Which Will Be First Boat Completed for Victoria Shipowners

Capt. J. C. Stewart will command the first barkentine completed by the Cholberg Shipyard for the Victoria Shipowners, Ltd. This will be the S. F. Tolmie, under construction with two other vessels of the same type.

Capt. Stewart, although living in Vancouver at the present time, is really a Victoria man. He came here between five and ten years ago, and when a number of wooden schooners were built in British Columbia during the war he obtained command of one of them, the Marie Barnard. This vessel was propelled by canvas alone for two trips, after which oil engines were installed. She was commanded by Capt. Stewart until the vessel was sold this year to French interests, when the veteran mariner returned to this Coast in June. He moved to Vancouver only a short time ago.

Capt. Stewart has had long experience, both with steam and sail. He served his apprenticeship in the White Star boats when they were still equipped only with sails, and he was in the famous old tea clippers.

YUKON RIVER NOW CLOSED AT DAWSON

Earliest Closing on Record Reported from North—Extremely Low Water and Cold Snap Caused It

DAWSON, Oct. 19.—Ice closed the Yukon river at Dawson on Sunday, this being the earliest closing on record. The extremely low water, combined with a cold snap, when the temperature reached ten below, caused the closing.

The steamers Casca and Whitehorse, which left here Thursday against a light run of ice, made Stewart City during the second day. They were joined there by the steamer Nasutlin, just out of Stewart river, after a hard fight to get over the bars from Mayo. The three steamers, which left Stewart on Saturday morning for Whitehorse, against a considerable run of ice, have been unable to get over Kirkman bar, 30 miles below Stewart City. The steamer Washburn left Whitehorse this morning to assist the others over the bar. All aboard are reported comfortable, with plenty of supplies.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, Oct. 19.—Captain Mackinnon, of the Pacific Coast mail steamer Newport, notified the post office here today that 363 bags of letters and parcel post packages from Europe and the United States were destroyed by fire aboard his vessel soon after it left San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, October 10, for Corinto. When the Newport arrived at Corinto the fire was still burning.

Most of the passengers' baggage was burned, but there was no loss of life.

MRS. LAURA RARICK, of Peoria, Ill., who says she believes she is the happiest woman on earth since Tanlac so completely restored her health. Regains 50 pounds which she lost during a period of ill health which lasted eleven long years.

"I believe I am the happiest woman in the world, and it is all because of what Tanlac has done for me," said Mrs. Laura Rarick, 408 Meldroth St., Peoria, Ill., a well-known and highly respected resident of that city.

"I never dreamed that I would ever find anything that would do for me what Tanlac has done," she said. "I was in a wretched state of health and was down in bed so long that I lost fifty pounds in weight, but I have gained back every pound I lost and I now feel as well as I ever did in my life. The indigestion and other troubles that made life a burden for eleven years have entirely disappeared and I am like a new woman.

"My stomach was so disordered that even liquid foods and plain water caused me to have dreadful cramping spells that lasted for hours. My kidneys were disordered and I had pains across my back almost constantly. I had severe headaches nearly every day and became so dizzy I could hardly stand. I was so nervous it was impossible for me to get a good night's sleep. I tried every conceivable medicine and was treated by specialists, but nothing helped me, and finally I was told I would never be well again.

"But Tanlac has made me a perfectly well woman in every way. I can now eat and sleep like other people and I haven't a pain about me.

"I am glad to give this statement, for I want to do all I can to let the world know about this wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Victoria by D. E. Campbell, Druggist, and in Esquimalt at Lang's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The Height is in feet and tenths of a foot above the average level of lower Low Water.

O.S.K. SHIP HERE ON MAIDEN VOYAGE

Alabama Maru Subject of Admiration Upon Arrival Here Yesterday—Is Sister Ship of Arizona Maru

The second of the fine new freighters placed upon the North American run by the Osaka Shosen Kaisha reached port yesterday afternoon from the Orient on her maiden voyage. This steamer is the sister ship to the Arizona, which came here on her maiden trip some time ago. These two ships are the largest in the North American service, being 9,695 gross tons and 6,069 net tons. Expressions of admiration were heard among the officials on the wharf as the big vessel came alongside the Outer Docks in charge of Pilot Harris, shortly after 6 p.m.

The Alabama Maru left Yokohama for this coast on October 6. She was laden with 6,968 tons of freight, but owing to the bulky nature of the cargo, the ship was high in the water. For Victoria there were 545 tons, for Vancouver 109 tons, for Seattle 1,139 tons, for Tacoma 4,913 tons, and for the silk train, 262 tons.

There were 131 passengers on board the Alabama Maru, 38 of these being in the cabin. Twenty-eight of the passengers debarked here.

The Alabama Maru was launched at Nagasaki on August 4. She is finely fitted out, and the quarters for the officers and crew are much more commodious than those in the older O.S.K. ships.

Capt. T. Yamaguchi, who is in command of the Alabama, is well known at this port, having been on the North American run last with the Manila Maru. He left here in May with this ship, and was then transferred to the new ship which was being completed.

BRINGS SURVIVOR

Big Power Boat Roche Point Calls to Land Survivor of Northern Collision

The big power boat Roche Point arrived here yesterday morning from Prince Rupert with a cargo of frozen black cod consigned to Seattle. She called in here to put ashore one of the survivors from the trawler James Carruthers which sank in northern waters a few days ago after a collision with the United States Government ship Surveyor.

The Roche Point is 87 feet in length and is equipped with a 175-horsepower engine using distillate. She runs at an average speed of nine knots. The big boat, which is owned by her skipper, Capt. W. J. Stone, formerly operated in the passenger service on Alberni Canal. She then was chartered to carry salmon from the West Coast to Seattle. She did this until two months ago when she was chartered by the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company to bring fish south to Vancouver from Prince Rupert. She is now making her last trip of the season and will take her cargo to Seattle.

GETS CUSTOMS MAN

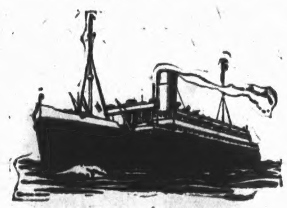

The steam schooner Rosalie Mahoney anchored off the Outer Docks yesterday afternoon to pick up a customs officer. She is bound from Seattle to James Island with potash. During the war the customs regulations calling for the presence of a customs officer at the spot where a vessel discharged cargo were not fully enforced, but they have now been tightened again.

Play Ends in Death

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 19.—"Playing hanging" proved fatal yesterday to Charles Weiss, eleven-year-old son of Sam Weiss, of Eudoreo, Ark. A rope placed under the boy's arms by several companions as part of a game of "cowboys and highwaymen" slipped, caught under his chin and strangled him. The victim's parents were attending a funeral.

TO GREATLY CUT DOWN B.C. FISHERY PATROL

Department Arranging to Lay Off Thirty Boats Which Were Chartered During Summer—Breaches of Law Few

VANCOUVER, Oct. 19.—The Dominion fisheries department is arranging to lay off about thirty patrol boats, chartered during the Summer months for service, principally in Northern British Columbia waters. In addition, twelve Government vessels will be withdrawn from patrol duty over the Winter season, leaving eight boats to carry on. The saving of expense, the fishing season being practically over, is the explanation.

Breaches of the regulations were singularly few this year say Government officials, due probably to the open fishing policy which made it possible to cover a wide territory on the one licence.

The American fishermen did not cause much trouble either. About 200 Puget Sound purse seine craft operated this Summer off the mouth of the Columbia River for the Chinook salmon, and further south off the California coast for Tuna, instead of heading north to the West Coast of Vancouver Island and the Gulf of Georgia. On the Skeena River several of the canneries bought salmon from the American craft and the latter often returned to Alaska with cargoes of Canadian pink salmon purchased from the British Columbia fishermen.

A shortage of refrigerator cars at Prince Rupert necessitated many of the American halibut boats continuing on to Seattle.

There is very little fishing for the Fall grades of salmon because of the difficulty in marketing the variety. It has been the best season for many years as far as the loss of life is concerned.

The spawning grounds are all well seeded except the Nass, and the prospects for the corresponding year in the cycle are very encouraging.

Instead of a depletion the salmon fisheries throughout the Province are now holding their own.
